Hi Tom!!
I'm really glad that you were in my algebra class and geometry class last year.
and you're a really sweet guy and I'm glad that I got to know you. Maybe next year will be in more classes together next year.
Have the best summer ever and good luck on all your exams!!
luv' ya,
Mary

Tom,
Best of luck in the rest of your high school career.
Love,
Mary

"Class" the term is one of the most widely used in our language today. Yet, the definition is as elusive and diverse as the quality itself. We all recognize "class" when we see it and still find it hard to put into words. One thing we all know for sure is that Newman has it. We don't have it because some of us have a certain style, or elegance or even money. We have class because this is a school in which materialistic values are not stressed, instead the intangible human qualities that make life meaningful are our first priorities. Sure there are some physical aspects that make Newman a class place, for example, we are located in the center of South Florida which is unique for its climate and location. Still there are many other reasons that make this special place. Newman is a place where people encourage one another. We encourage one another to attain the highest academic standards. We encourage each other to be leaders with integrity and maturity. We encourage each other to develop and utilize our individual as well as group talents. We support our athletes in a program where they learn to be winners first and competitors second. We share our many gifts by helping those who aren't quite as lucky as we are. Finally, we include God in everything, in the classroom, on the sports field, and at social events. By anyone's definition -- Newman has that touch of class.

What do Dan Donavan, Virginia Cleary, and Cathy Lynch have in common? They filled leadership roles at Cardinal Newman during the 1981-82 school year. What qualified these individuals to be leaders? Defining "leader" is as illusive as defining class. Is it appearance? Stature? Intelligence? Animal Magnetism? A combination of these or just a desire to have a long list of accomplishments or their name in the ACCOLADE!

For these people it was a desire to serve the students and faculty. They took the responsibility of handling the problems and making the decisions that effect everyone at Newman. Through organizations such as the Student Council, Senior Board, and class offices, leaders were able to exercise their leadership qualities for the good of all.

Lou Brock told the student body in a speech he gave on leadership that "There are three types of people in this world, those who make things happen, those who watch things happen and those who wonder what happened." Newman's leaders made things happen.

When thoughts of South Florida come to mind, those thoughts are of warm, sunny days, sandy beaches (maybe with volleyball nets or coolers packed with munchies), the "Gold Coast" with its shopping centers and entertainment, and of course, the beautiful Atlantic ocean come to mind. Centered at the heart of South Florida are the Palm Beaches. In the middle of downtown West Palm Beach, Newman students attend classes at a beautiful campus which includes five buildings.

Days spent in school were, most often, days filled with sunshine and occasionally a warm rain. Week-ends were spent water skiing, swimming, biking, driving around with the windows or convertible tops down, anything was possible because the weather was almost always perfect. The Gold Coast itself provided plenty for Newman students to take advantage of whether it was Friday night entertainment, or a place to have prom.

The general feeling could best be described by saying that if a teenager had to spend his or her days in school — Newman was by far the best school in the best place.

Location

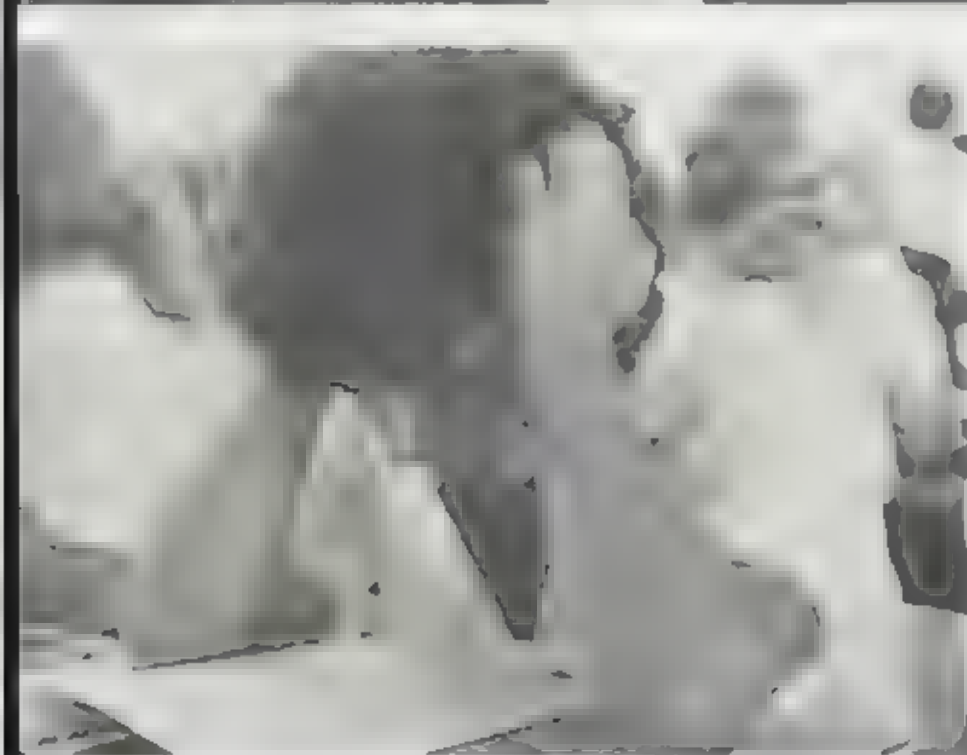

Scholarship

Cardinal Newman had several basic goals; among them was to prepare its students for college. The students strove to gain knowledge by studying hard and learning through experience. Statistics which bring pride to the administration at Newman are: 55% of last year's graduating class entered 4 year colleges and universities, 36% entered two year colleges, 7% entered trade or technical schools, and 3% became permanently employed. The class of '82 statistics promised to be equally impressive. This laudable degree of success shows the ambition and drive commonly found among students at Newman.

That students were willing to attend Newman instead of a public school exemplified the character and class of the students. It also promoted closeness within the student body, especially among those who wanted to achieve and attain their goals.

Talent

Talent wasn't always synonymous with class, but at Cardinal Newman it was an other way of showing the "class" within us. We had various ways of exemplifying this talent including, Drama, Forensics, Choral, and Art. In the Drama department, amateur actors walked the boards in acting classes and in the Newman productions and Thespian Festivals. Forensics is the art of competitive public speaking and it encompassed everything from Student Congress to Poetry Interpretation. Everyone at Newman was aware of the National Forensic League's talents because they heard them twice a day at announcement time. Many students were active in the numerous choral groups like the Show Choir, Girls Ensemble, Boys and Girls quartets, Girls Chorus and Concert Chorus. At many area concerts and festivals, Newman singers displayed their gifts of song, garbed in tasteful and colorful costumes. The most tangible of these talents was Art. Out of the art room came many paintings, sculptures and artistic creations that adorned the library and the Central Office, for the students and faculty to enjoy. Artwork was also submitted for the yearbook and the newspaper. Maybe the new Katherine Hepburns, Adlai Stevensons, Luciano Pavarattis and Picassos were being propagated here. If talent is another word for class then Cardinal Newman High School had more than it's share.

Generosity

watched each other helping others, a truly class way of sharing oneself'

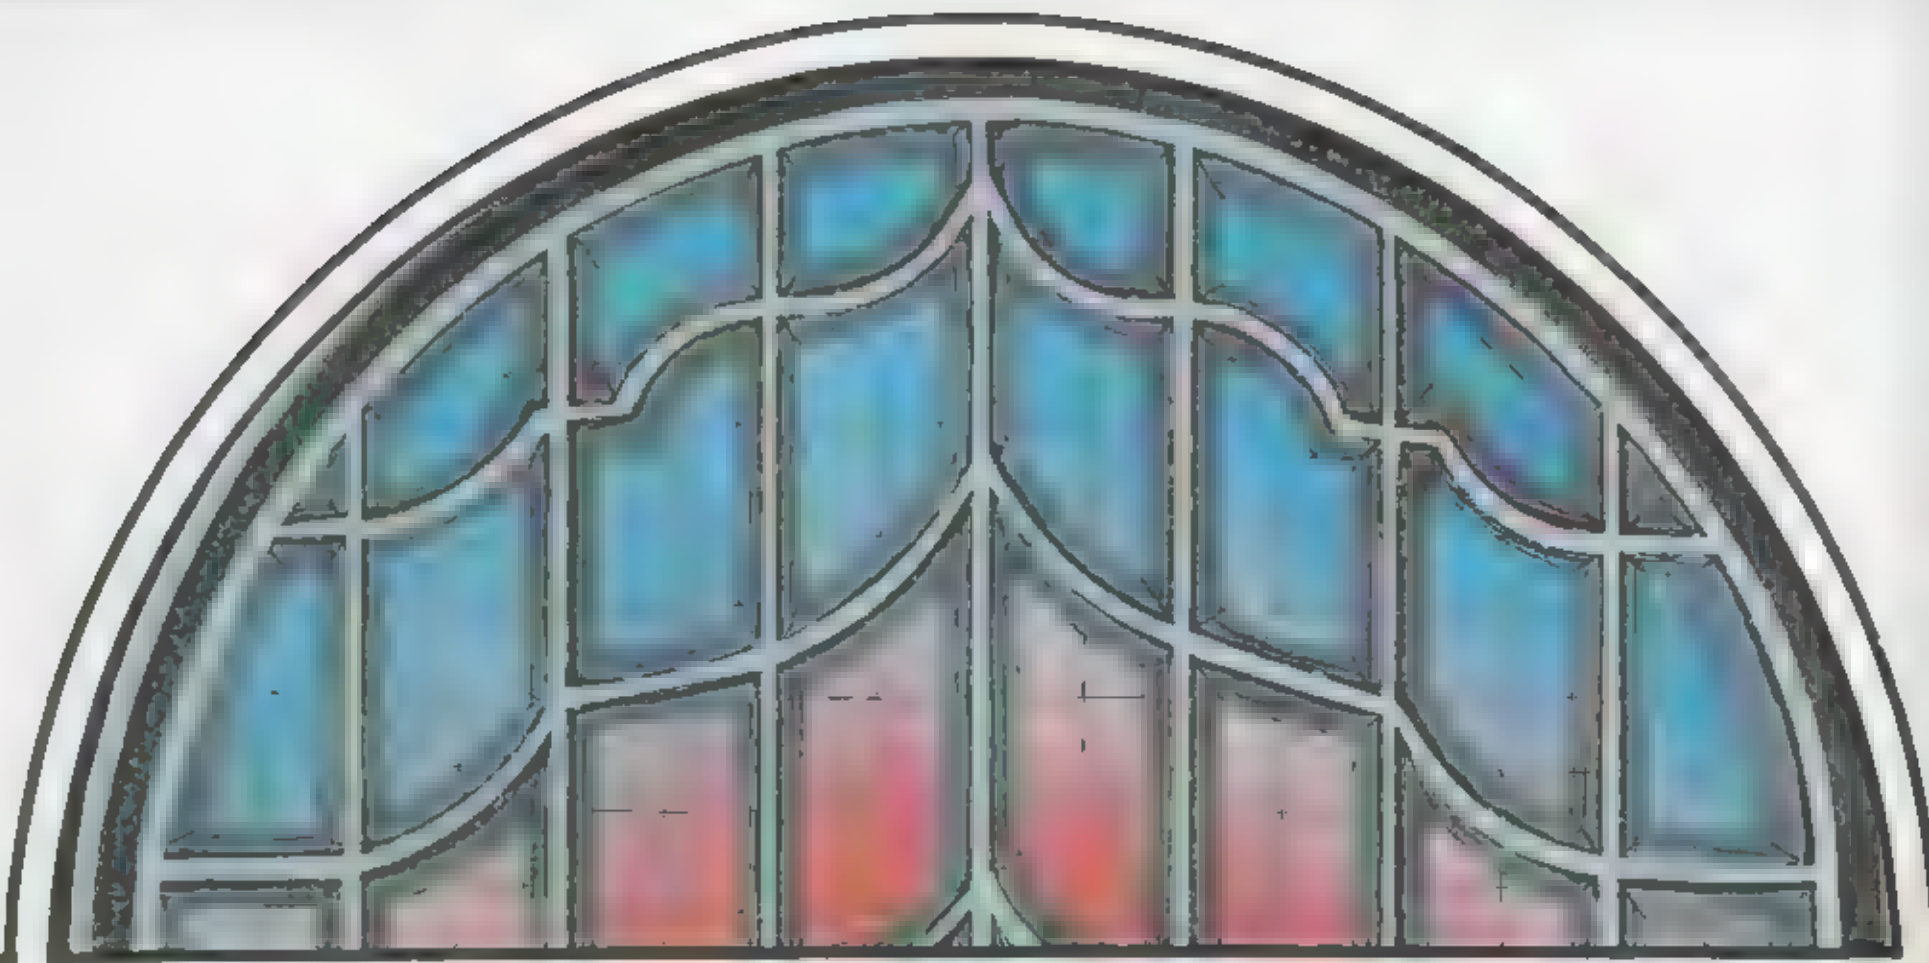

Newman students, faculty and Administration showed their care and concern for those less fortunate than themselves in many ways throughout the school year. Afternoons and week-ends were often spent participating in various fundraising activities such as the Leukemia Swim-a-thon, the MD Bowl-a-thon, etc. Everyone also pitched in and helped with the Student Council sponsored Blood Drive, both in donating blood and in helping to run the Blood Drive itself.

There are those few, rare individuals who give of themselves, quietly, completely, without expecting anything in return. Newman was lucky to have many of these people one of whom was English teacher, Miss Ann Kitts. Miss Kitts worked throughout the year, with students who had drug problems. She worked with common sense but also with a smile. Generous with her experience and knowledge, she gave of herself, asking nothing in return.

Bob Collins, a sophomore from Lake Park was another of those individuals who shared himself without expecting praise in return. Bob was a volunteer fireman in his community, often answering calls at all hours of the night. Bob expressed his motivation for his work in this way, "When I do something to save a person's life and/or property, I have a feeling of pride."

The pride that Bob spoke of is the pride that all Newmanites felt when they Religion is a major part of life at Cardinal Newman. It is what sets Newman apart from other schools. The dedication and faith portrayed by the students and faculty is one of the school's greatest assets.

At Newman, religion and a love of God is all around us. Days started with a morning prayer to help students through the day. In Religion classes we learned that God loves everyone and that in turn everyone needs Him in their daily lives. With the guidance of the school chaplain, Fr. Steve Vasek, students had the chance to receive Holy Communion during their lunches, incorporating religion into their daily lives. Also through the help of Fr. Christopher Stack, students were able to go to confession.

Newman students also contributed their time and talents to make all school masses as well as outside retreats enjoyable and meaningful. Each religion class was given the opportunity to have a Mass with Fr. Vasek. Students chose the music and readings, wrote prayers and poems and even made banners as a part of preparing for their Mass. But most of all, the sisters, priests and teachers at Newman demonstrated a special aspect of "class" through their dedication to teaching, not only academics, but also the word of God. They taught through their own examples — that God is a major part of their lives.

Sports

The sports program at Cardinal Newman possesses a very special quality that truly portrays a touch of class. To maintain a high level of competition and at the same time instill an attitude of christianity and good sportsmanship, is a difficult task indeed. But under the guidance of Father Curley and Athletic Director Sam Budnyk our sports program has taken giant strides to stand alone at the top. Under their guidance for 20 years we have built a reputation for being a staunch competitor while maintaining the highest academic standards in the area. It is not the athlete that is stressed here but the student athlete.

The coaches know that most students who compete here will never go on to collegiate athletics, so they understand that academics always comes first. While they cannot teach us everything, the coaches try to build character, to teach valuable lessons for our later years; how to win with grace and accept defeat with dignity and courage.

It was once said that, "It matters not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game." It is how we play the game here at Newman with christian fellowship and good sportsmanship that truly gives us a "Touch of Class".

Newman's First Lady Miss Courtney

At Cardinal Newman High School there was one person that had been a freshman four times, in 1961, 1970, 1979, and 1981. That person wasn't the oldest high school student in Palm Beach County, it was Newman principal, Colleen M. Courtney.

Miss Courtney's first freshman year was in 1961, when she entered Cardinal Newman, which at the time was only the North building and the convent.

If you thought the uniforms were ugly this year, you should have seen them then. The girls wore grey skirts, white blouses, a red belt, bobby socks and oxford saddle shoes. Miss Courtney was active in the Science club and was a member of the NHS.

The second time she became a freshman was in 1970, when she joined the Newman faculty as a freshman teacher, teaching Biology and Religion. She returned to her alma mater after earning her degree in Science from Florida Atlantic University. Not only did she hold that degree, she also had her Masters degree in guidance. She was also only one class credit away from earning a Masters in Administration. Miss Courtney stated, "I knew I was either going to be a doctor or a teacher and I guess that certain teachers I had made me choose the teaching profession." Miss Courtney was senior class moderator from 1976 till 1979 and the head volleyball coach.

In 1979 Miss Colleen Courtney became a "Frosh" for the third time when she was promoted to Assistant principal and became a freshman administrator. Her duties last year were centered around the school activities and student scheduling. In the beginning of last year when so many lost students came to the office to get their schedules corrected, Miss Courtney coined the phrase, "When in doubt, go to lunch."

Not unlike the other three years, Miss Courtney was a freshman again in 1981. That certainly wasn't a demotion when you consider that she was made Principal last spring. She reflected, "I think that the fact that we're a Christian school sets us apart from say, Forest Hill or North Shore. Plus the principles of Christianity are embodied in everything we do." I'm very proud of the fact that some employers will only hire Newman because they know the caliber of individual they're getting to work for them."

Even with all the chores she had that the principal's job entails, Miss Courtney remained the volleyball coach. She commented, "I kept the volleyball team so I could keep in touch with the kids. Since I don't teach I've lost some contact with the students so the volleyball team was one way of getting that back. Plus it got me out of my office at least by the 30 minute practice time."

Miss Courtney has completed the circle in her life, in that she once sat before the principal's desk and now she sits behind it. Her background as teacher, her education in addition to her experience as a student Moderator, coach and assistant principal responsibilities contribute to her excellence as Principal and she certainly wasn't a "typical freshman."

Fr. Curley The Man At The Top

"To me, a person with class is someone who has the characteristics of goodness, virtue, being Christ (or Mary like), being concerned with others and willing to sacrifice himself for someone else."

When Father Frank Curley OMI made this statement he did not know that he was describing himself. As Cardinal Newman's Supervising Principal, Fr. Curley is truly a man with class.

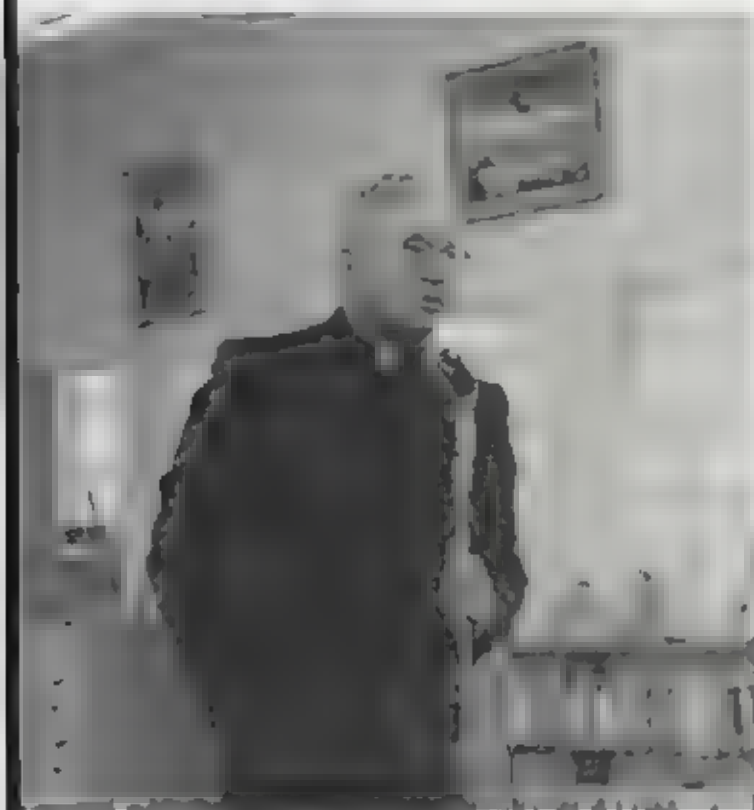

Born in Boston, Massachusetts; He received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Theology and a Master of Arts Degree in Secondary Education from Catholic University in Washington D.C. His missionary work as an Oblate Father has taken him to Canada, Portugal, Rome, Vatican City, France, and the British Isles. For fourteen years Fr. Curley was a French, Latin and Religion teacher, also the Athletic Director at Bishop Fallon High School in Buffalo.

By 1965 Fr. Curley had transferred from teaching to administration. As Newman's Assistant Principal and Dean of Students, he had to sacrifice the one thing he loved the most, teaching. "I really miss it. Teaching is more intimate, you get to see slow bloomers as they progress. You know that you have to do a good job because teaching is for life. Administration is a lonely job". Yet his favorite aspect of his job is dealing with people. "I like dealing with people in need because it is part of my priestly duties. Also dealing with parents who care about school."

For Fr. Curley, pride comes from Newman's spirit, a sense of security, but most of all he feels that Newman's greatest asset is the students. "The students here are the greatest. You can say that 98 percent of them are terrific and the other 2 percent are not so bad. The school seems dead when the kids are not here because they are whom the school is for."

Cardinal Newman has become Fr. Curley's life work. "I love my job. It is like any other job, it takes sacrifice, dedication and loyalty, but you do it for the ones you love."

TOP Fr. Curley leads the school in a class mass.
ABOVE Father enjoys the chance to speak to the students whenever possible.
RIGHT Personal contact with parents and students is important to Fr. Curley and he attends as many football games as possible to do so.

Mr. Schram: He Made Things Happen

"A leader is someone who makes things happen." At Cardinal Newman Assistant Principal Mr. Roger Schram is truly a leader.

Born in Yutica, New York; Mr. Schram received his Bachelor's Degree from Syracuse University and a Master's Degree from Florida Atlantic University. His fifteen year teaching career has been spent at Cardinal Newman. "I've taught almost every English course this school has had to offer." In addition to English, he has taught junior and senior Religion and was the English Department chairman for four years, 1972-1974 and 1979-1981.

Mr. Schram is most remembered for the time, from 1974-1979 when he was Dean of Students. "I gave up the position because I felt that I had heard all the excuses and knew all the answers. That's the time when you have to move on to other things. I really respect the job that Mr. Berg does because things that would bother me, he seems to handle much better."

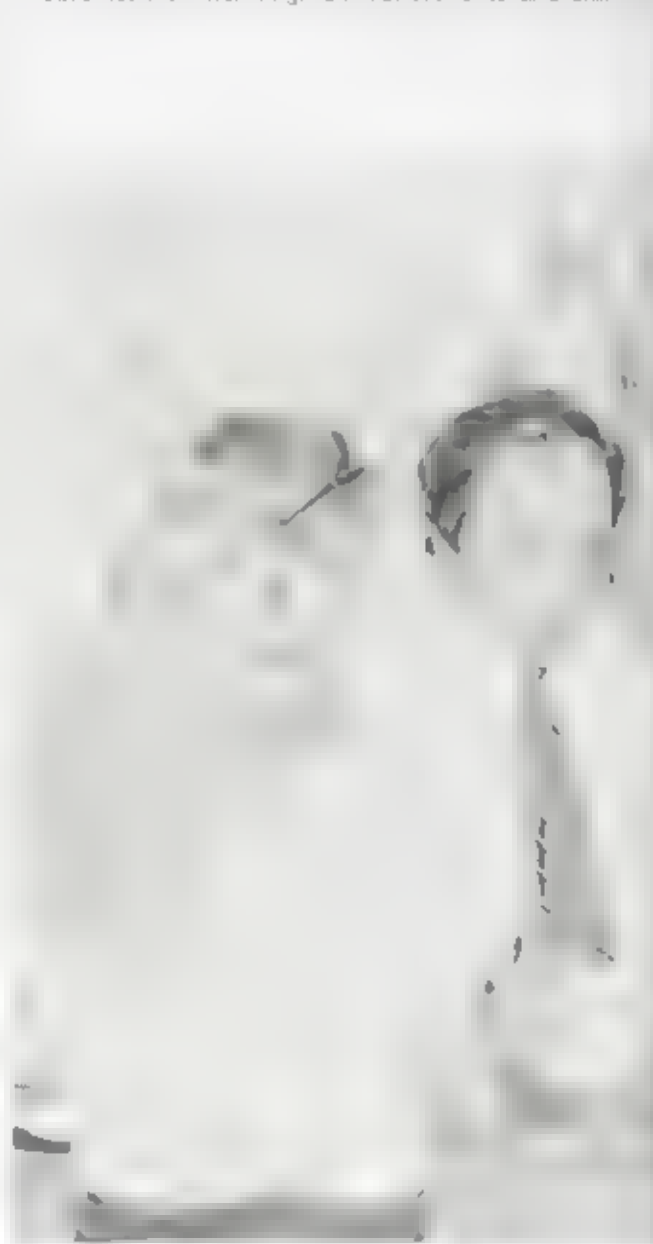

As Assistant Principal, Mr. Schram has many responsibilities associated with his job. "I work on class scheduling, keeping records of clubs' accounts, schedule activities and special events, and work with the school calendar." Somewhere amidst his scheduling, he was able to teach one senior Honors English class.

Mr. Schram's activities did not stop when Newman was dismissed. He taught three English courses at Palm Beach Junior College, the S.A.T. preparation class at Newman, the summer Enrichment course in English, and a summer workshop on Leadership. "I don't seem to get time for a vacation, maybe someday."

The one change at Newman that Mr. Schram feels is the best is the growth of student involvement and leadership. "It's the school's greatest asset because students can tell us what they feel needs to be changed and it makes our jobs more beneficial to the students." Also, Mr. Schram stated that Newman is special because "we have never given in to outside pressure. When other schools were teaching classes in Poetry Appreciation or something like that, we stayed with the basics and now schools are coming back to our way of thinking."

Mr. Schram also stresses that the things that Newman teaches students helps them for later life. "Students have come back and said that the things they had to do here, such as being responsible for themselves and wearing ties had prepared them for college and work. We prepare students for the real world."

He's Heard Them All

His duties range from collecting fines, taking care of student attendance, to teaching one course per semester. To Cardinal Newman's Dean of Students, Mr. Ken Berg, these responsibilities must be and are carried out each day.

With a Bachelor's Degree in Biological Sciences and a Master's Degree in Education, Mr. Berg's eleven year teaching career has taken place at Newman. He has, in the past taught Basic Math, Biology I, Biology IIB, Environment and Man, and Marine Science. His activities included coaching Swimming for four years and being moderator of Newman's Oceanography Club for three years.

When Mr. Berg took over the position of Dean in 1979, he had to give up a few things. "I really miss coaching the swimming team and teaching the sophomores in Biology I, but I don't have the time. I do get to teach one class in Biology IIB, and I really look forward to it because it is sort of a mental break."

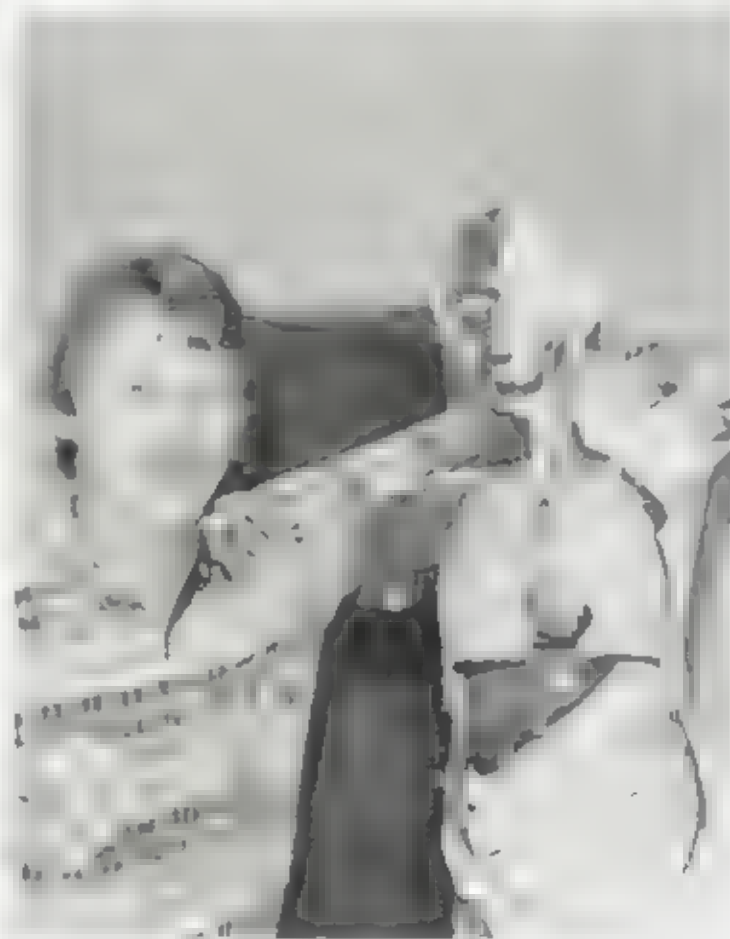

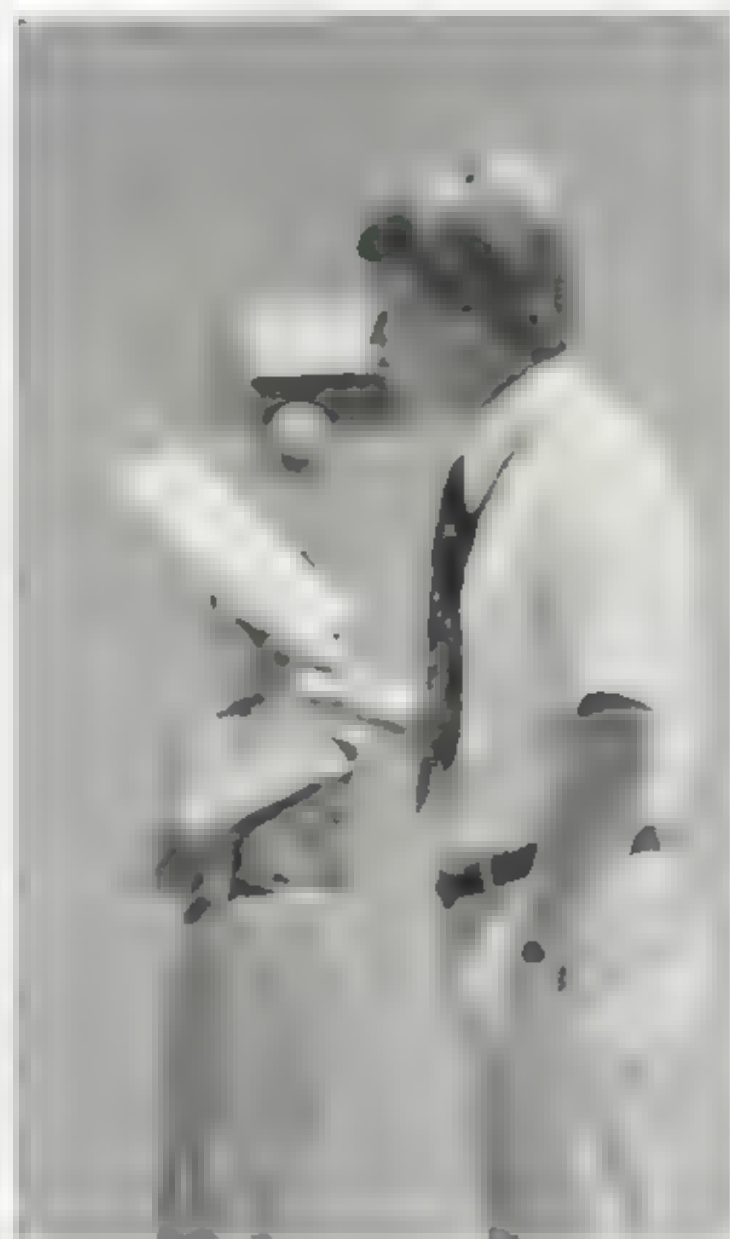

This year Mr. Berg was very pleased with the job that student's did about being on time for school. "Students don't realize that I serve every detention with them. My one goal would be one Friday with no detention."

When students are late or absent, Mr. Berg is the one who listened to excuses and reasons that they gave. "My all time favorite excuse was by Sharon Shattie, who graduated last year. She told me that when she was at work her car was towed away. She had to pay a fine to get her car back so she didn't have any money to pay her gum fine so that she could take her semester exams. She had gone back home to get some money and that's why she was late."

Being in a job where he has to discipline students, Mr. Berg does get satisfaction "when a student does something wrong and I help him to realize that he is wrong and help him to make it right."

As for plans for the future, Mr. Berg has a few goals. "I'm already teaching college courses part-time and would like to be able to teach some more. Personally, I always wanted to build a house from scratch, but I don't have time for it. I guess I just want to enjoy life and Florida living." For now life for Mr. Berg is "something different every day and you begin to realize that fact is stranger than fiction."

Guiding Lights

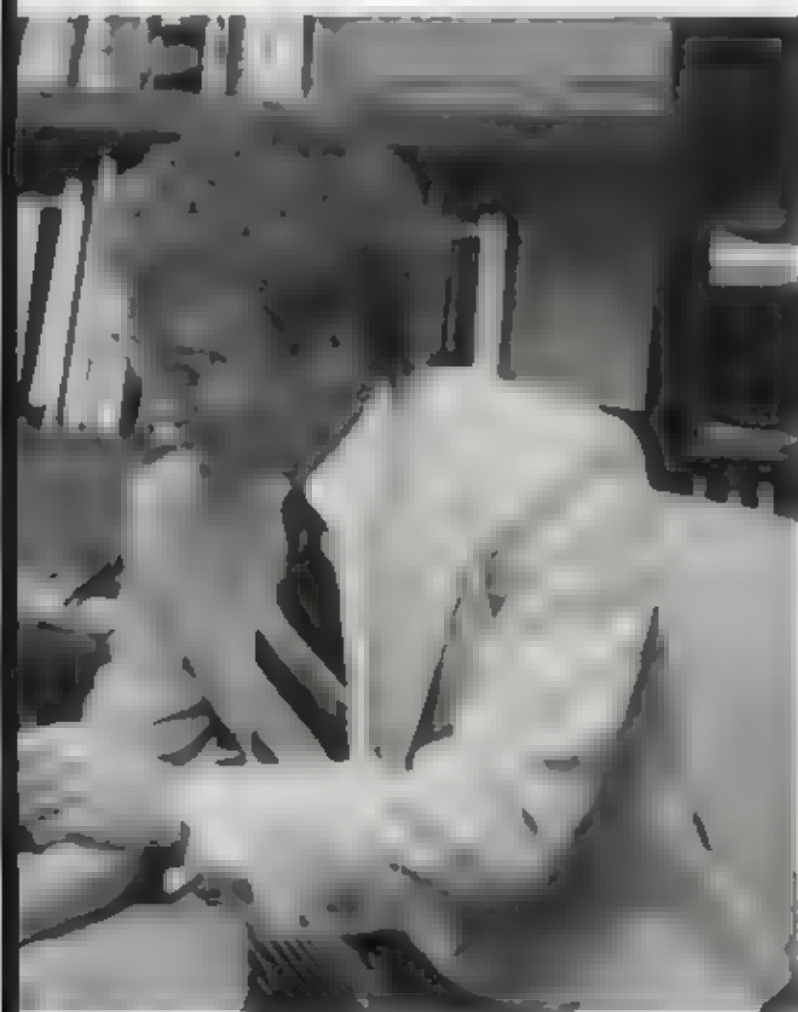

"To make each senior aware of my personal concern for his or her happiness, to make the seniors aware of this present and future responsibilities, to stress the importance of working to capacity in order to be able to accomplish their dream, and to assist each student in developing and recognizing his or her God-given potential so that each will develop his or her best self." These objectives exemplified just how much Sr. Anne Gallagher cared for the students at Cardinal Newman, both as a guidance counselor or and as a friend

In 1981-82 the Guidance Department went through a transition: the freshman class was divided among three counselors, Father Griffin, Sr. Mary Mark and Sr. Anne Gallagher, with Mr. Schram as well to help with the scheduling. The counselors were responsible for their own classes in addition to the Freshman class. Sr. Anne "guided" the Seniors, Fr. Griffin had the Juniors, Sr. Mary Mark had the Sophomore class

Since Sister Anne was the Senior Class counselor, she was very busy throughout the year filling out college applications, transcripts, and sending them to colleges from New York to Hawaii. In addition to counseling in this area, Sr. Anne, Sr. Mary Mark, and Father Griffin also advised students on personal problems, academics and career planning. The Guidance Department had always been and remained during the past year a place where students could find help and ad

We Are The Church

Rosaries, bibles, churches and praying True, these things are all associated with Religion but Cardinal Newman's Religion classes were much more than that. In order to have appreciated the Religion in which a student practiced, they must have mentally and physically been involved and aware of the beauty and dignity in which they contributed to society. "Today's students are a part of tomorrow's problems, they are the society, and they are the church," as stated by Miss Theresa Fretterd, Religion teacher and Head of the Religion department.

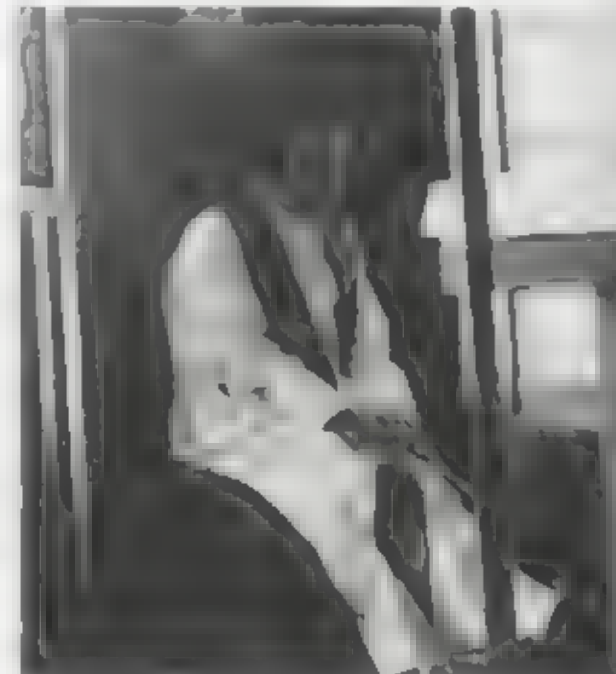

The Religion staff here at Newman, which included: Miss Theresa Fretterd, Father Hank Lemoncelli, Art Steffes, Father Robert Colfer, Mrs. Jeanne Hulihan, Father Donald O'Brien, Mrs. Dee Montfield, Miss Karen Dorsey, Mr. Tom Barthle, and Father Steve Vasek tried to instill in their students a genuine care for human beings. These teachers also emphasized the importance of mortality in today's world.

On all levels of Religion, whether it be Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior or Senior, the students actively portrayed their beliefs through projects which helped them to better understand Religion. The purpose of these required courses was to bring the students closer to a religious life. Even non-Catholics enjoyed their Religion classes as they openly talked about their feelings. This helped them feel like they belonged.

Miss Fretterd also remarked "The entire faculty, not just Religion, is a faculty that cares and is open enough to laugh and cry with their students."

English Department Adds Five New Members

Mrs. Rafter Is New Chairwoman

Some students spoke the phrase "English class" in the same tone of voice that they might have said "The Black Plague", but English was one of the most important parts of a student's education. Change was the over-riding theme of this year's English department which included a new department Chairwoman Mrs. Alicia Rafter. Mrs. Rafter taught English and Latin here at Newman, and was known for being very thorough in both subjects. There were eleven teachers in the department which made it the school's largest. To run it required a great deal of organization and Mrs. Rafter utilized a system of coordinators on each level to put together the curriculum and guide the other teachers in the teaching of their classes. Mrs. Diane Johnson, Junior level coordinator, commented "The department on a whole is very flexible because even though, say in literature, the teachers have set subjects to teach they can choose any work by that author and the means in which to teach it, such as films or tapes. That's good and I think it's the best way to run the department."

The biggest change would have had to have been the addition of five new teachers to the department. The new teachers were, Ms. Karen Canale, Mrs. Barbara Eggemeyer, Mrs. Andrea McNally, Mrs. Sharon Mills and Mrs. Elizabeth Neitz. Mrs. McNally, who came here from St. Ambrose in Deerfield reflected earlier in the year, "I'm enjoying it so far and I really haven't had to bring out the chair and the whip yet!" Mrs. McNally was a senior English teacher.

Journalism came under the jurisdiction of the English department and the Newman publications had new advisors. Mrs. Eggemeyer did the newspapers and Mrs. Mills supervised the yearbook. There were three journalism classes, all semester courses. Journalism I was for students working on the newspaper, which started in second semester. Journalism I and II were for the yearbook. Journalism II was for Juniors in their second semester so they could learn the skills for building the Accolade. Journalism III was for Seniors only in their first semester, which was the class that actually assembled the book.

Even though students had to spend four years in English class, no one ever died from over exposure to grammar. Mrs. Rafter reflected, "If the students have an understanding of the language and the ways it can be used, then they can communicate better and appreciate English more. That's important because every job you undertake requires that you express yourself. The English language can be fun."

Science Department Cuts It With Class.

Cardinal Newman's science department under the direction of Mrs. Sharon Baker, is one of the finest educational assets that Newman had to offer. The multiple number of science courses ranged from Physical Science to Physics, with many courses between. If an incoming Freshmen expressed a desire to take a science course, he will be placed in Physical Science. This course covered the broad spectra of the sciences and was a good idea for the students who wanted a sample of each science that was offered. The next step above Physical Science was the course offered to all sophomores, Biology. Biology provided students with a modern look at the anatomical, chemical and physiological concepts of biological science. After students completed Biology and still felt an urge to continue expanding their knowledge of the sciences they enrolled in Chemistry. Chemistry was one of the first major challenges that students found. This course was the first step toward working with complex theories and laws. Emphasis was placed on the concept of an atom and understanding how atoms are formed. The last major step under the heading of the science department was Physics. Although classified as a science, Physics combined complicated scientific formulas with intricate Algebra and Trigonometry. Physics was similar to Chemistry in that they both were problem solving courses, yet Physics dealt more with measurement, force and motion. Newman offered the serious Science student a complex curriculum that satisfied the needs of anyone interested in the field of science.

The Past To The Present It's The American Way

"The main idea of teaching history is to relate the past to the present and to show its effect on the future," said Mr. Pat O'Hare, the chairman of the Social Studies Department at Newman. Newman's Social Studies covered everything from Sadat's assassination and war in the Middle East, to inflation and the high interest rate. Through such classes as Economics, A vs. C, or American History a student could learn about mistakes made in the history of the United States and other countries while discussing today's problems and their effects on the world today.

A Teaspoon Of Spice

Take a teaspoon of spice and a tablespoon of sugar, dash of patience and mix well then simmer in West Palm Beach for approximately 20 years. What will you have? You will have Cardinal Newman Home Economics teachers, Mrs. Beverly Eberhart and Sister Kathleen Wall. This recipe made for the type of Home Economics department that enhanced life at Cardinal Newman. These teachers were always willing to help and offer their facilities to other departments within the school. The department provided classes that were popular and fun. In addition the classes were important to the students enrolled in them. As Juliet Silva stated "Home Ec is a helpful way of preparing for the future."

United, They Stand

"Ready! Set! Go!" shouted Jane Panse as she started the stop watch to time her p.e. class in the 50-yard dash. This is only one of the many requirements for the freshmen and sophomores in physical education. Other activities were volleyball, softball, hockey, and the 600-yard dash. Through these sports, students learned to cooperate with each other in unity. "The girls are patient and want to help the other girls" states Mrs. Panse. This was the one way students showed their class, through physical caring.

The members of the physical education department include: Ms. Lila Veenker, Mrs. Jane Panse, Mr. Jim Arbogast, Mr. Tom Budnyk, and Mr. Jack Kokinda, head of the department. These teachers instill on their students the importance of working together. They found the students to be more christianlike towards each other during p.e. "They like themselves better and others too because they don't get down on each other." Mrs. Panse commented, "they try to help each other condition their bodies because we care about their bodies more than others."

Physical education not only took away from the monotony of a regular classroom, but it helped students build themselves. They left the gym tired, but in better shape. To be healthy and physical fit is very important and through p.e., students achieve this. All those long sweaty hours spent in the sun or gym paid off. It built better people — both physically and mentally. As Mrs. Panse summed it up, "The kids learned that they owe something to their bodies as well as their minds. The departments tried to show them that they lose a sense of living without activity like p.e."

Planning For The Future

"A teacher affects eternity;
he can never tell where his influence stops"

— Henry Adams

This is true of almost any academic department at Cardinal Newman, but especially, the Business Department. Miss Winifred Leary, department chairman, with the assistance of Mrs. Nancy Crew and Mrs. Mary Landry developed skills that students will always use

This year the business department was expanded. In addition to the main aspects of the department, Accounting and Typing, a course in speed writing was introduced. In this class Mrs. Landry, used the Gregg Notehand technique of proper notetaking

Opinions of the new course varied. Patty Mullen, senior, stated that "It is like learning a foreign language, it is hard to learn," compared to Mrs. Landry, "I love it, I enjoy teaching the class." Dorothy Atwell, junior, concluded, "The course will help in taking notes now in high school and later in college."

They Made Foreign Language Come Alive.

Did you ever want to travel to foreign lands such as Spain, France and even Ancient Rome? Well if you took a foreign language you could have spent at least nine months there. You would have travelled by way of the in-depth study of the Foreign Languages Spanish, French and Latin. These are the languages taught here at Cardinal Newman and it gave the students a quick look at the way people in these lands communicated and lived. Last summer, some students actually did travel to foreign lands when Spanish teacher, Mrs. Judy Wright took a group of students to Mexico. The trip was a success in the eyes of Junior Maryann Bruno who commented, "We learned alot about the country and the night life was really great. The people were so friendly!" Artifacts of the trip including an Ojo de Dios (God's eye) and a boarding pass from Aeromexico adorned Mrs. Wright's room.

Language studies enriched the minds of many Newman students because it exposed them not only to a new way of speaking, but a new way of thinking. Mrs. Wright commented, "Language is the most human of humanities. The most intimate way to learn about a person's culture is through the study of their language."

TOP BACK ROW Mrs. Wright, Miss Curtin, Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Watson, and Mrs. Valdivia
RIGHT Miss Curtin gives aid to her Latin students with much enthusiasm

In previous years students thought of Art as an easy class to earn a credit in. These students soon found out that by taking the course that it required skill, effort, and an interest to pass the course. Mrs. Jane Anderson stated, "A definition of art would be an expression of inner feelings and beauty around us that we just don't take the time to see."

Mrs. Anderson was the first to open an art course for Cardinal Newman. The school added more electives and asked Mrs. Anderson to start the art and art history program from scratch. Mrs. Anderson openly admits her long lived love of Art in all forms. She had always been artistic and she and her husband often visited museums and cultural centers. Though Mrs. Anderson expressed her enjoyment of what she taught, she always wanted to be an interior decorator or art curator for a museum.

Mrs. Anderson made it clear that the one thing she has liked her students to have gained in her class was an appreciation of the finer things in life. She also remarked, "What I'd really like to see is the students putting their new skills to work every day in their life, such as in decorating their homes." "Mrs. Anderson herself decorated her own home. Now that's class."

In A Class By Herself

Arts Were Classic At Newman

Love and appreciation of the arts, that's what the performing arts attempt to instill.

Acting I and II, were expertly taught by Mr. Johnstone; Chorus taught by Mrs. Hoyt; and Speech I and II, had Mr. Patrick Keenan as instructor. These courses were designed to teach all of the various forms of art which showed "man's expression of man". These courses allowed the students to express themselves on their own special way. But like any other course, it needed and found instructors who cared enough to get involved. These teachers even furthered their involvement by sponsoring clubs and organizations after school hours. There was Mrs. Hoyt's choir groups: the girl's choir, Fantasy; the mixed chorus, Southern Sounds; the show choir, Rainbow Connection, Cardinal Newman's newest edition; the Gingham Girls; quartet; the boy's quartet, Quadrophonic Sounds, the Freshman girls quartet, Harmonettes, and the girl's ensemble, Sunshine Special, all of which were commended for their unique, outstanding performances. There was also the International Thespian Society, sponsored by Mr. Johnstone, which has won several acting awards at both Palm Beach Junior College Drama Festival and district and state contests, and Mr. Keenan's National Forensic League, which tournament after tournament brought home the trophies.

When asked why these teachers chose to teach at Cardinal Newman, Mrs. Hoyt and Mr. Keenan admitted that it was because of the Christian community and the fine young people that attended the school. After 17 years at Newman, Mr. Johnstone decided that parents were concerned with what their children were learning and so was he.

In any performing arts course, there are goals to be met and failures to accept. Mr. Keenan stated "If you want to hit a home run, you've got to be willing to strike out." It couldn't have been said any better. The young people that took these courses went in with a positive mind to learn a creative trade, whether it be speech, acting, Humanities, or chorus. Mrs. Hoyt added thoughts when she claimed, "You won't see the obstacles if you keep your eyes on the goals."

When it came down to what a student really accomplished in the performing arts, Mr. Keenan remarked, "YOU can be or do whatever you want if you put your mind to it." When asked about what he thought a student should have learned in performing arts, Mr. Johnstone stated that responsibility was the most important thing. One of Mr. Johnstone's favorite quotes is from The Little Prince by Antoine de Saint Exupery — "You become responsible forever for what you love." A classy way to live for Mr. Johnstone — a man with class.

Media Center Staff Helps Behind The Scenes

"There are a million things that we have to do behind the scenes that people don't see." — Mrs. Pat Sharp

When Mrs. Sharp first started working at the library seven years ago, there was no Audio-Visual department or many of the other items which has made Newman's library more of a research center.

With the expansion of the Audio-Visual department, periodical section and vertical file, more responsibility has been placed on the librarians; Mrs. Pat Sharp, head librarian, Mrs. Nell Martin, Audio-Visual coordinator and Mrs. Natahe Piecik, who does 'a little bit of everything.'

With the added responsibility the library staff has had to sacrifice many things. Mrs. Sharp stated that, "I would like to be out with the kids more but I have to spend more and more time at my desk."

Despite the time spent to improve the library, Mrs. Sharp and Mrs. Martin agree that there are still some things that need to be done. "We would like to expand our collections and update the existing equipment. Many students think that they can only use a book when they do a report. They are afraid to use the equipment in class and for projects." But they are all optimistic that the library is beginning to develop and grow for the good of the school.

They Kept It Together

Cardinal Newman High School could not run as smoothly and efficiently as it does without the aid of the dedicated secretarial staff. The secretaries consisted of Mrs. Charlene Abdo, Mrs. Pat Crossey, Mrs. Gail Ogden, and Mrs. Martha Shonter.

The four ladies had diverse jobs. Mrs. Abdo, the administrative secretary, assisted Fr. Curley, Miss Courtney, and Mr. Schram in correspondence and other matters. Mrs. Crossey, a general secretary, took care of comforting the sick students in the clinic, absentees, and the papers to be run off. Mrs. Ogden, a registrar, was responsible for student transcripts and other records. Mrs. Shonter, who was the first employee hired when Cardinal Newman opened, worked as a financial secretary. Her duties ranged from billing to taking care of the student club accounts.

Where would Newman be today without her secretaries? Imagine a school day without a clinic or copies of papers? That would be a day without secretaries.

Out To Lunch

"Hi Luv!" is the greeting received by hungry Newman students from Mrs. Warren as they arrive at lunch in the cafeteria. Mrs. Warren, who was originally from Australia, has worked in the cafeteria since the day it began. First she was a volunteer in an organization of mothers who sold chips, sodas, and ice cream. At that time there was only one crowded lunch period so working in the cafeteria was very hectic.

The rest of the cafeteria staff includes Mrs. Mary Scalfani, Mrs. Victoria Sermon, Mrs. Jean James, and Mrs. Lawrence. They all work together to prepare top quality food for hungry students. They are willing to listen to suggestions throughout the school year, in order to bring the student an enjoyable and nutritious lunch which sometimes includes a super-burger. Students return to class with a better disposition because they had eaten a good meal in a warm atmosphere filled with friends which was made more enjoyable by the cafeteria staff.

They Kept Things Going

Many students at Newman noticed that things were broken, vandalized, or taken apart. What was not acknowledged was who repaired, built, painted, and cleaned. Well, take notice of the maintenance men Mr. Bill Conover, Mr. Fred Manuel, Mr. Johnny Linton, and Mr. Robert Manuel. Some of the dirty jobs these men did included repairing clocks, desks, chairs, tables, painting halls, classrooms, and schoolgrounds.

Another part of the maintenance job was working day and night, which many people would not find a pleasureable task. Through all this hard work and effort, these men displayed the class inside them. Like Newman students, their generosity makes them special.

Teachers Are People Too!

"The moment the bell rings at 2:25 they are ready to go home. They leave the school immediately and grade papers the moment they get in the door." This is the image most kids get of teachers. They believe that all they do is grade papers and make hard tests for students. But this is not the only thing they do. Many teachers are also coaches and they spend many long hours helping to build their students athletically. Teachers also go shopping, attend sports activities, and get together with other teachers on Sundays to watch the football games. This proves that teachers don't just sit home and create hard tests, they are just like normal humans. TEACHERS ARE PEOPLE TOO!

Class — In School And Out!

With five minutes until next period, students spent their time in various ways. Some talked with friends, rushed off to class, and others did the previous night's homework. But did teachers spend their spare time in school like this?

For many teachers, their extra minutes were spent correcting papers or preparing lectures. Yet because of this year's accreditation, many teachers spent their time working on evaluations and making recommendations. Mr. Mike Wisniewski said, "I usually spent my time chatting with a bunch of kids or talking to Mr. Maginn and Mr. O'Hare."

Most teachers made time to give students extra help or share their experiences on valuable subjects, such as college or football. All of the teachers at Newman have always been unique and talented individuals.

Seniors

Doug DeSantis and Kevin McCann, seniors, show their enthusiasm towards graduation

Hey Seniors, Are You With Us?!

Spirit is something that the class of "82" was know for before, and the last year the class spent at Newman was no different. However, the spirit of the Senior class varied from excitement to indifference to anticipation

The "Seniors are #1" attitude abounded especially during the Homecoming week. Enthusiastic Seniors worked diligently to prove the superiority of their class. There were some set backs such as losing the pep rally. It was a big blow to the Seniors because they'd won the pep rally two years in a row. Spirit wasn't deminished and the Seniors kept right on. The result was a virtual sweep of the class competitions and the Seniors won with 525 points total

The next advent in spirit which raised it's apathetic head was the "blow it off" attitude. This fortunetly was only a small minority Of Seniors, but when fourth quarter rolled around many people joined in. This attitude involved skipping term papers, causing anarchy for fun and kill and maiming people just to take down the absentee in order to get out that "boring class". "Alot of kids I know are letting school go and generally are just doing enough to get by and get out," commented Senior Ronnie Guthrie. Visions of caps and gowns, graduation parties and the Senior cruise tickled the temples of the Seniors more than Trig or English Lit

The third attitude was a combination of fear and hope. Most Seniors experianced the waiting game of college applications and agonized for weeks and months waiting to hear from the admissions officer "I'm concerned of course but it's nothing to lose your head over like some kids I know. The paper work is what intimidates most, but they got through it," commented Senior Mike Park

These three areas covered most Seniors and each was inflicted with it at one time or another. In some cases the three hit all at once

"Our float this year was not only the best float I've seen here in 4 years but it was also a lot of fun to build. A lot of people really worked hard! Sometimes we would stay up until the wee hours of the morning fluffing flowers or painting God, I wish we had another Homecoming. This was our last one but we definitely made the best of it!"

The time had come for seniors to move on, and moving on means many things. Ahead are anticipated experiences, new goals, and unexplored horizons. Each day will bring more knowledge and awareness along with joys and sorrows. Moving on is challenging and exciting, but to seniors it means saying goodbye to the halls of Cardinal Newman High School.

The Class Of 1982 Celebrates 25 Year Reunion

The Class Of Future Living

Zooming around in spaceships, using computers as though they were pencils. The world is completely different from the way we once knew it. Cars are non-existent, a universal media service has been installed in all home-ports and travel is no longer from country to country but from planet to planet. The latest fashions range from the regular white space-suit to the modified plaid air-conditioned model Polo and Izod have become things of the 1980's, now only talked about by the graduates of the 1982 class of Cardinal Newman High School.

The class of 1982 had great expectations yet most fell short some shorter than others; Jay Cross hoped to become the Captain of a Naval ship, he is presently the manager of Captain D's Seafood restaurant. Greg Kino had the thought of becoming the top executive of a big business, he ended up the leader of an anti-prep club. Cindy Lang after careful consideration became a pediatrician but after two years was hospitalized after being brutally beaten by an unidentified eight year old on Rollerskates. Cathy Lynch left high school with the intention of becoming a Doctor, after twelve years of undergraduate school Cathy changed her mind and entered the field of politics — as a ballot counter. Jim Magill intended his career to continue at Walt Disney World as a designer, which it did until he was shot for imitating Minnie Mouse. Liz Nealon had high hopes of either becoming an executive of a multi-billion dollar business or at least marrying one, she was last seen six years ago working as a Peace Corp. volunteer. Rhett Ross hoped to become a leading Scientist of the 21st Century but due to circumstances beyond control he became an international Play-boy and owner of numerous night clubs. Louise Stevens dreamed of marrying that perfect guy and owning a fashion boutique, well she got married but working as a librarian things weren't the same. Sue Bramuchi thought she wanted ten kids and to become a successful business woman in New York, but after careful consideration entered the convent and became a nun. Bill DelGrosso was heading for President of the United States but after five years in the Nazi Party became the leader of a Communist nation.

Then there were those who were undecided and here is what they became; John Paoletti — U.S. Senator; Drew Myerowich — part time babysitter; Dan Donovan — after nine years of college returned to Newman to follow in Fred's footsteps; Sam Budnyk — became the athletic Director at Cardinal Gibbons, John Cagni — Secretary of State and last but not least Mark Givens became the leader of the N.A.A.C.P. That's the way the 1982 graduating class from Cardinal Newman faced the future; here's to the future!

They Came, They Conquered And They Went Wild!

THE BIG FOUR. What came to mind when this was mentioned? To Newman's Senior class the Big Four stood for its Class Officers

"Do you know that there has not been a female Senior class President in sixteen years?" This statement by Virginia Cleary may have gained her the attention needed to be elected class president, but her determination gained her respect. Her leadership and drive proved that she was the best "woman" for the job.

Brian Gabriel helped to prove that Vice-Presidents do not just sit around and let things happen. He constantly added the spark of craziness needed to liven things up.

Taking care of the finances and records were the jobs of Treasurer Eileen Nevad and Secretary Teddy Alonzo. They kept things under control and running smoothly.

The Senior class officers of 1982 came, conquered, and went wild.

Almost There

Most student don't notice their own progression through Cardinal Newman, at least until the Junior year. When the third year rolls around, the beginning of the end of high school can be seen. Students begin to look at school objectively. Going to school is no longer an ingrained part of their lifestyle. By the Junior year, most students either have or have had a job, and have received a taste of the real world. Despite this knowledge most Juniors have of the outside world, they don't lose interest in the school.

The Junior year is the most difficult academically for most students. This is the reason Juniors don't lose interest. "A Junior to me is one year before becoming a Senior and fully mature." Was the opinion Tom Craft II expressed when asked the question of what it is to be a Junior. This opinion seems to be the consensus of the class of '83.

“Juniors Are You With Us?”

“Juniors are you with us?” “Hell ya!” This was often the beginning of a fun filled party weekend and the end of an active week at school. The class of '83 was high strung and always willing to participate in school activities. They sponsored several events for the senior class including Prom and Ring Day Mass.

During Homecoming week the juniors spent their afternoons putting together a float on the theme of the Haunted House (W D W). As moderator of the juniors Mrs. Diane Johnson allowed students into her home to work on the float.

The seniors were thankful for the refreshments and smiling faces after Ring Day Mass. The juniors were responsible but also fun loving, and as Steve Andrews put it, “We’re a pretty laid-back class.” The big event of the year was Prom. The juniors put on a beautiful Prom for the senior class. This was one of the nicest events of the year.

As one junior put it, “We’ll have a lot of good parties.” They were very active and always willing to help.

Junior Representatives

They Kept The Junior Class Informed

The Junior Class plays a very important role in the year's events. They were in charge of Prom which was probably their most important project this year. In order to raise money for prom, the Junior class held a punk dance. Because of the "New Wave" that's sweeping Newman, the punk dance was a success. They also earn money from class dues. The Junior class was responsible for supplying refreshments after Ring Day Mass for the Seniors.

The Junior class representatives are responsible for informing the class of their responsibilities and keeping the students informed of their upcoming events. Matt McGrath, the president of the Junior class, said, "At the meetings, we discuss ideas of how to raise money as well as ideas of projects we're responsible for. We decide on the ideas as a class so everyone is involved, not just one person making all the decisions." Bart Basara, a Junior class representative, said, "As representatives, we go back to homeroom and inform the class of what we're doing and get their ideas of the things we're doing."

Third Year Blues

It has been said that Junior year was the most difficult year of years at Cardinal Newman. Most people considered their junior year to be the most fun regardless of the homework assigned.

Junior Anne Titzel said "Its been challenging, but fun. It has been the hardest year so far " Junior Kris Maly didn't take one of the hardest classes, chemistry, which seemed to be the main pain in every juniors life. She said "I think that my sophomore year was the hardest " Senior, Virginia Cleary commented, "Junior year was fun and challenging because you were just one step away from being a senior. School seemed long and difficult and frustrating, but when the fourth quarter came the realization of becoming seniors turned dreams into reality." Joe Caforio, senior felt that it was his worst year at Newman, he admitted, "My social life took precedence over studying. I've learned that I should apply myself because that what's important as far as colleges are concerned."

An Award For The Future

"I really didn't know the meaning of the award itself, but when my name was called I was surprised to receive it!" said junior, Shari Laiacosa. She won the "Freshman of the year" award for her first year at Newman. That was the very first year that the award was established. It was designated by Father Lawrence Griffin, the class of '83 counselor, to be the class of '83 award until they graduate. After that the honor will remain for the freshman class at Cardinal New man. Jay Marra was the winner of "Sophomore of the year" and was chosen on the basis of individual achievements. Father Griffin said, "I choose (the winner) by doing a survey of the teachers on who they think is the most outstanding student." To be chosen as the winner out of a class of more than 300 students is a true honor. This award was one of the features that helped to make the class of '83 unique among the classes at Newman.

The Lady With Clas

"Being a class moderator gives me the chance to get to know students on an other level and it also lets them get to know me in a different way too." As Junior Class moderator, Mrs. Diane Johnson has to keep "a group of enthusiastic individuals" together.

Mrs. Johnson first became junior moderator last year. "I was asked by the administration to take the job because they wanted someone who participated in activities, and they asked me." Since then, she has helped her class to set up Ring Day Mass, participate in Homecoming activities and raise money for their ultimate project, Prom. One of the class's first fundraisers, which Mrs. Johnson was very pleased with was their Punk Dance. "It was great because the kids worked so hard to make it successful. Also it was good because people who used to not work on things did."

Though she is the moderator, Mrs. Johnson tries to downplay her role. "I don't want to be the dominant figure. The officers should take the leadership roles and I am their advisor, most of the time I am a resource person."

Despite the fact that Mrs. Johnson tries not to mention it, she does feel that the best thing she has taken part in was helping last year's juniors with Homecoming. "It was incredible because the whole class worked so hard to win. Everything they won they deserved completely."

When asked what she feels she has gained from being Junior Class moderator, Mrs. Johnson stated, "I learned things from the students. There is also the satisfaction of doing a good job. Also the students' enthusiasm is good for the teachers because it keeps us enthusiastic."

"I Love The Feeling"

Definitely not a new face to Newman was junior Mike Turdo. Being the number one runner on the cross country team was great for Mike. "I love the feeling; it's a real accomplishment for me." He enjoyed being in shape and advised new runners to "do a lot of stretching before you run." Mike would like to break four minutes in the mile in track and also go to the Olympics. He hopes to receive a scholarship to college for his running.

Newman's number two man in cross country, junior Kevin Mullen, loved to train. "I like the feeling of working towards my goal and practice helps me do that." Although he had been running for six years, he had only been serious about running for three years. "At first I started cross country for the exercise, but then I got serious about it." Kevin was the first one on the team who had ever run a marathon. In 1980 Kevin ran 26 miles in the Orange Bowl Marathon and claimed "it was 50% mental and 50% hard work."

With great runners such as those two, it was no wonder that Newman had an excellent cross country team. As Mike and Kevin continued to excel in the sport, the other members always looked up to them.

Junior Officers Got That Whamma-Jamma.

The 1981-82 Junior Class was led by four energetic and spirited people. Their "punk" president was Matt McGrath who was known for being a Devo fan. Backing him up as vice-president was Charles Coates. Charles was quite an artist and some of his work adorned the Junior Homecoming float. After the vice-president came the treasurer, Ellen Lehman, who met the qualification of being a good treasurer, by always keeping accurate account of the class of '83's money. Last but not least was the secretary, Sylvia Galainena. Mrs. Johnson, the Junior class moderator, commented "Sylvia's great. I haven't had to write a single announcement all year. All of my officers are great!"

The junior class showed its true colors during Homecoming competition and throughout the year with its enthusiastic involvement and support of Cardinal Newman. Their success was due mainly to the dedicated class officers of the Junior class of 1981-82.

While taking a step up the ladder this year the Sophomore class has taken a step in the right direction toward supporting the school's events. The Sophomores were one of the most spirited classes this year. At the first pep rally the sophomores showed their spirit as a class and also their spirit for the football team, both vocally and with visual aids such as; hats, ties, and posters.

The sophomores have come a long way since being scared and unsure freshman at their first pep rallies. Even though the Sophomores are a source of spirit to be recognized this year it was not always like that. Many past freshman agree that a first pep rally is not exactly a calm environment for someone that has never been to one before. Especially here at Cardinal Newman where the students take great pride in supporting their team.

In the past it has taken a while for individual classes to catch on and really lend a hand. When asked about this fact Coach Mike Wisniewski, who coaches the J V team that is comprised mostly of Sophomores, he commented, "This year's Sophomores have been much more supportive of the football team. I can't remember a class like this since last year's seniors." When asked why he thought this was true he said "The main reason for this that I can see is that there is much more participation this year. There are more Sophomores on Varsity and this year's J V squad is the biggest I've coached since I've been here." The Sophomore class clearly displayed Endless Enthusiasm.

From 'Freshie' To Wise Fools

The long awaited year finally arrived. After spending a year as a "Freshie" they had graduated to the rank of "wise fool", or Sophomore. At the end of summer, friendships were restored and the buzzing of "who do you have" and "how was your summer" echoed in the halls.

Many were happy as they continued up the ladder of their high school year. When reflecting on what it is like to be a Sophomore Shelley Austgen staged, "It is good not to be a freshman anymore." Don Clemens commented that, "It is a time in which you're recognized as a young adult rather than a kid." To Ellen Dees, being a sophomore "is realizing the fact that you are no longer the youngest in the school, but you're not a senior either." Kerry Brougham summed up being a sophomore by saying, "You move up in the school and become a more powerful and bigger part of the school."

Sophomores Sophomores?

Sophomores! students in their second year of high school are often forgotten. After all they aren't the brand new Freshmen nor are they the oldest — Seniors. They don't even have a major event to plan and work toward as the Juniors did with preparing for Prom. It would be very easy for the average Sophomore to just blend in, contributing nothing to the school. In fact it might even be easy to just forget the whole year. The Sophomores of 1982 were different than other sophomores, they made sure that they would remember and be remembered!

Sophomore Todd Miller's statement "We have nothing to look back on and everything to look forward to" appropriately summed up the feelings of the others in his class. They were enthusiastic, involved, and dedicated. They all made sure that became a real part of Newman. Simply stated, they were everywhere and involved in everything! One could see sophomores Dan Mallow, Ed Beerman, Scott Jacobs, Dan Collins, Rick Delesso, Bob Mara and others helping out on the Varsity football team. Sophomore athletes were the leaders on the J V Football team as Brian Nappi, Tom Solowsky, Andy Kissner and many others played key roles throughout the season. Bob Collins, Billy Resnik, Tom Polack, Jim Buckmeyer and others helped with Key Club, Mary Beth MacManus, Jack Deveny, Denise Norton, Paul Dags, and Scott Mayer were among other sophomores that were involved in NFL Chorus members Cathy Haywood, Carla Sangiovanni, Lisa Christman, Antonia Davis, and Linda Deon were among the sophomore members of Chorus. The list of involved sophomores could go on and on. Their contributions were an important factor in the success of the 1981-82 school year. The sophomores were united and friendly, in Pep Rallies, during classes, at athletic events. They exemplified the term "class"!

Question — Who wanders the halls of Cardinal Newman looking confused and carrying a much used, and worn schedule? If you answer Freshman — you are only half right. The second half of that answer would be transfer students. Paul Oenbrink, John Valek and Jim Keeley were three of the many new students in the sophomore class.

Jon Valek was a transfer student from Pope John Paul II in Boca Raton. He noted that there were many differences in these two schools primarily because P J P II was new. He felt that he was learning more at Newman because it was organized. John stated that "The schedule and lunch periods were the hardest to figure out." However after a month he became used to it and it was easy.

Paul Oenbrink, a transfer student from Rockledge High School in Northern Florida found it hard to adapt to the rules and regulations of a private school. He stated that at his former school, "You could chew gum, get to school late, and do a lot of things you could never get away with here." As for the dress code Paul commented, "We could even wear shorts to school!" Paul found that the hardest aspect at Newman to adapt to were the classes, especially trying to study and complete homework.

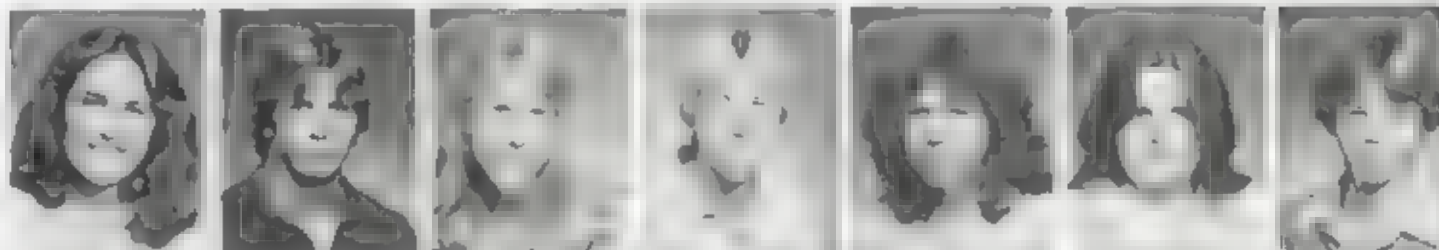

Jim Keeley transferred from an all boys Catholic school in Delaware. To him the biggest difference was obvious.

"GIRLS!" He did feel that Newman's best feature was the friendliness of the teachers and students. "They make you feel welcome when you are new!"

These three students are examples of Sophomores who not only adapted, but fit in and were welcome additions to their class and Newman.

They Worked Well Together

Pres. Jannie Matheson, V P. Sheila Espinosa, Treasurer Allen Stevens, Secretary Karen Fitzgerald

The Sophomore Class, the class of '84, has elected three out of four female officers. The one male, Allen Stevens, treasurer, is the minority, for a change, among Pres. Jannie Matheson, Vice Pres Sheila Espinosa, and Secretary Karen Fitzgerald. Women's Lib seems to be taking over at Cardinal Newman. Jannie Matheson sums up her feelings about this last year: "We really worked well together and got alot accomplished." Mrs Chenette, Sophomore class moderator, says that "They're the best group of officers I've ever worked with." And Sheila Espinosa commented, "I think we worked well with the rest of the class and everyone really cooperated."

Two By Two

Two by two the sophomore class was represented. Each homeroom had a representative and an alternate Fundraisers organized by the sophomore class were the selling of pom-poms for pep-rallies, and football games, and helping to raise money for new j.v. football uniforms. They also planned functions for the seniors, as well as a class trip

Maria Sed, homeroom representative, stated, "We have worked to maintain better communication between the class officers and all the other students "

Robert Collazo, also a homeroom representative, commented, "I'm glad that I am a representative. It is a great learning experience. You learn to work with the administration, the faculty, other officers, and students."

Well, once again, this year, as in the past, the Freshman have had to make that drastic change of going from the top to the bottom. Jeanne McAvoy, said, "Being in high school is a lot different than grade school because here, we're treated more like adults." Henry Stevens said, "Newman isn't as hard as I thought it would be as far as my classes, but it takes adjusting to get used to the schedules and the people." The Freshman this year seemed to have made the adjustment O.K. but they are all looking forward to being "Big Sophmores" next year

DOING A FINE JOB

Representation was important to all the classes this year and the Freshman Class was no different. The representatives did their best to keep their classmates informed of all the information about school events. Their biggest effort was homecoming and the Freshman rep meetings were visited by the Senior Class President, Virginia Cleary and Senior Board Members as well, to give them the schedule for the festive week and answer questions the newcomers had about float building. The theme the Freshman picked was Space Mountain with the banner on their float reading, "Roll over them Falcons." Under the joint moderating of Sister Anne Marie Meagher and Mrs. Mary Custerari, the representatives did a fine job planning and enacting their participation in the festive week's events. In fact Sister Anne described their performance as, "Excellent!" Sister Anne said, "Besides Homecoming the Reps were responsible for planning the bumper stickers which they started in January." Mrs. Custerari voiced the same optimistic opinion of her reps when she said, "The reps are working hard and are really a fantastic group of kids." The Freshman representatives were: Jeanne McAvoy, Rick Ramirez, Christine Carroll, Tiffany Hobson, Anne Ulsett, Jeff West, Lisa Garcia, Alex Piazza, Marjorie Iacaci.

The First Impression

"It's not quite what I expected its much smaller and has more to offer than I had heard." Nicole Caandra after 3 days of school. This feeling was one shared by many of the incoming class of '85. The social life was increased by 100% and chances for proving oneself and meeting new people were found all over the campus, and occasionally off campus.

With such organizations as the Pep Club, Social Action, J.C.L. and the Clown

Club one could expand through cultural experiences and friendships became a major part of life, and as Laura Cosco put it "I hope that the friendships I have found will remain with me for the rest of my life." The friends were those which helped you through those hard times in the beginning when things were rough. Cries and feelings were getting hurt but these would soon dissolve. At first I was scared entering a new social atmosphere, but it soon ended after meeting my new friend." stated Kate Winblad.

On the other side of the coin there were academics. "Academics at Cardinal Newman are more advanced than I ever expected and they have challenged my mind." This was Eddie Sisko's first impression of Newman. He was also noted for saying "The homework is TOO much." These pressures were part of the ingredients which made up Cardinal Newman freshmen for the year of 1981.

Working Together For The Best Possible

"I think this year will be the best ever because we have a Great Freshman Class that will work together to produce the very best possible". This statement was from Stephanie Cushman, freshman class president. Stephanie feels that even though they are "The New Kids in Town", they still are an important part of Newman.

Despite the fact that the freshman officers were not elected until October, they were needed to organize and take part in school activities, such as Homecoming.

Because things are new and different, Newman's freshman have to adjust to a new atmosphere. "As freshman, we need to get use to Newman. As the year progresses, we will show more school spirit and enthusiasm to make our class the best", stated Jeff West, freshman class Treasure.

The freshman class is a group of eager individuals determined to succeed in the transition from junior high school, to Senior High School. As stated by Ann Ulseth, freshman class Vice President, "This year is going to be great, But then again, anything is better than grade school".

Mental Challenge

The Backgammon Etc. Club is a club which consists of students who enjoy competition in logical games. Such games as Backgammon, Toche', Mancala, Blocade, isolation, and Othello are a few of the various games we participate in. The club consists of members who enjoy a mental challenge and competition among friends. Each An inter-club tournament is played to determine the rank of our members we can compete against other schools. Tournament in various other games are also held to encourage competition among members.

Chess is a battle between two opponents where strategy and planning are essential to the game. The Chess Club taught these skills. One did not have to know how to play chess to enter because the club taught the game to those who did not know how to play.

The objectives of the club were to promote and improve the game of chess. The game requires patience and the club hoped to be able to teach this. Through playing chess, members improved their skills. The club also went over famous games and strategies to improve their games.

The Chess Club is affiliated with the United States Chess Federation and held nationally rated tournaments. The outcome of the chess games were sent to the U.S. Chess Federation and the players rated.

The Girls Chorus, called "Fantasia", was composed of many dedicated singers whose goals were set high this year. As Julie Owens stated, "It's a starting point for a possible future career, Mrs Hoyt has taught me the fundamentals of music which are necessary to the music career."

Shows were few and far between but the experience was there to stay. Learning of choral works and performing for competition was the more valuable experiences in the eyes of the rising young singers

Rachel Ginn got her start in the Girls chorus and in a matter of weeks became the "Band-Aid" for the Show Choir. She said, "For me C-period helped me become a better musician."

The mixed chorus is the oldest and the largest chorus at Newman. With a group of nearly forty students the sound possibilities were endless. Even though there were a great deal of problems in the first semester the mixed chorus got their act together and went to District competition.

With the addition of many first-time choral students much of their time was spent studying music theory. Sight-reading and rhythms were a major part of the choral competitions. A section of the semester exam also depended on the students' abilities in these areas.

"One of the problems with the mixed chorus was their discipline," said the President of the chorus Richard Davidson, "Without self-discipline organization is impossible."

Even though some students may have felt that the Show Choir was favored, the mixed chorus showed that through self-discipline and a lot of hard work conflicting students can pull together to perform beautiful choral work.

Rainbows Are Visions

The "Guys and Dolls", mixed quartet was achieved through a series of changes which hurt some feelings along the way. The "Guys and Dolls" were a group of talented musicians with the intent of close, four part harmony.

This year there were originally two quartets. The "Gingham girls" who had to fill two available positions through auditions and the guys quartet the "Quadrophonic sounds," those were the original two. They consisted of Laura Metzger, Ann Batus, Sandy Howell, and Pam Krolczyk. The guys quartet consisted of Phillip Sylvester, John Cassandra, and Richard Davidson, Ted Tracey.

"We came up with the idea of combining the quartets because they were not working out," said lead singer Pam Krolczyk.

"Working with a quartet takes a lot of work," said Tenor Richard Davidson, "We even had to give up a few days of our Christmas vacation to rehearse for the All State Convention."

Clown Club: Bringing Joy

The Clown Club is a newly established club at Newman. Its purpose is to bring joy and happiness to a sad heart. During the year they have put on shows for Thanksgiving, Christmas, for Senior Citizens, and for a group of little children.

The Clown Club is run under the guidance of their club moderator Miss Terry Fretterd, and with some extra help from Father Steve Vasek, and Father Lawrence Griffin.

There is one person who is an outstanding member of the club, Tina Paine. Tina is very dedicated to trying to help make the lives of others much happier. Tina might look like an average everyday person on the outside, but on the inside she is a true Clown.

The officers for this year were Erin Peters, President, John Grieb, Vice President, Tish Howell, Treasurer, Ellen Leach, Secretary. The Exchange Club had approximately 54 members. The reason for the large membership were the activities that enabled members to involve themselves in school. Many of the activities included, candy sales, visiting Gaines Park during Christmas, helping the school during the Evaluation and last but not least, the Exchange Club Boy and Girl of the month. The members of the senior class voted on a list of seniors that exemplified such qualities as leadership, achievement and scholastic ability. Some the Boys and Girls of the month were: Ellen Wade, Dan Donovan, Marie Egan, Jeff Bott, Julie Moyle, Tim Hanlon, Virginia Cleary, Greg Kino, Robby Acosta, Cathy Lynch, Barbara Kissner, and Sam Budnyk. It's easy to see from the list why some would choose the Exchange Club over any other club

Vices For Advice

Communication was the key word this year for the Inter Club Council, and it again proved a useful tool in the planning of the student activities. The Council was made up of vice-presidents of all the clubs and classes and was established last year to promote coordination of club and class events.

The Council was a sounding board for many new ideas and fundraisers. The Senior Class utilized the ICC to present the first draft of the Homecoming activities and plans. At that point the other clubs voiced their opinions and asked questions pertaining to Homecoming. From there the clubs could go and inform their individual organizations and plan their festivities accordingly. The ICC was an extension of the Student Council and assisted the Student Council in some of its plans this year such as the blood drives and the scholarship fund. In addition to that the ICC also planned and selected dates for the raffle free days

Barb Kissner, vice-president of the Student Council said, "This year I would like to have all the clubs represented. Once everyone is enthusiastic about the Council, we can have the clubs sponsor joint activities and have all the clubs present at one club's function." Barb, as head of the ICC, ran the meetings and served as a liaison between all the clubs and the administration

Mr. Schram, the moderator of the ICC stated, "I'd like to see the Council grow and develop more and have a little more power than it has in the past. The best part of the ICC would have to be the sharing of information and the better understanding between the clubs. It seems unnecessary to have the clubs working against each other and the Council gives them an opportunity to come together and talk out things and cooperate with each other."

God Is On Their Team!

One of the newer clubs at Cardinal Newman was the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (F.C.A.). The club was made up of all female athletes. F.C.A. was different from most of the other clubs because the meetings were held outside of school. The activities range from religious discussions to playing sports. The club competed in sports but only in a Christian way. They got together with students from other schools and competed against them in different kinds of sports activities. New man girls not only got to know each other well, but students from other schools as well. After becoming a member of the F.C.A., senior Erin Peters said that she can "see how God can be incorporated into sports." The members of the club became a very close knit group of girls. The long "afterschool hours" meetings gave the girls a chance to get to know each other well, have a good time, and still become closer to God.

JCL: We're Not Dead Yet!

The Junior Classical League, more commonly dubbed the J.C.L. or the Latin Club was moderated by Mrs. Alicia Rafter. They took part in forums and competitions in Palm Beach County as well as State and national competitions. The students competed in such areas as Certamen, original orations, costumes, and scrapbook.

Certamen is a field which requires a great deal of preparation on the part of the students. It consists of a panel of four students from each school and a proctor who asks the panel questions dealing with Latin culture, grammar, etc. The idea is to stay in the competition while other panels are being eliminated.

Original orations are one of the more difficult categories. They usually consist of famous Latin speeches from men such as Caesar. The speeches, memorized by students, are judged on correct grammar, pronunciation and comprehension of the speech itself, in addition to creativity. Scrapbook competitions are held on district, state and national levels. The scrapbooks contain awards, accomplishments, projects, newspaper clippings, etc., of JCL's members.

Taking part in the costume competition involves making costumes that imitate a Roman God or goddess. Each year a certain god is chosen and all students competing must fulfill several requirements: 1) Making the costumes themselves. 2) They may spend no more than $20, and 3) Learn the history of the god or goddess.

Another form of competition in which the J.C.L. has been active is the Latin Olympics, which is similar to a track meet. Newman received awards in various categories of this competition. There was also a chariot team which consisted of four girls pushing a chariot with one guy driving. The chariot must be built entirely by students, except for the wheels. Newman's J.C.L. has, in the past, taken awards in this competition.

Another important time to J.C.L. members was National Rome Week during which there were Scrapbook contests, projects, etc. on all levels of competition among the classes themselves.

In the past few years, several J.C.L. members have been outstanding in National Competition. Cathy Lynch and Karen Wajdowicz have both won prizes in National Forums in the costume category.

Newman's J.C.L. was the first to make certain that Latin is not a dead language, and as long as there is a J.C.L., it will remain alive and well.

Animal Crackers We're Not

Thespians? What are Thespians? Some kinda new crackers? Nope, when you said Thespians you were referring to Cardinal Newman's chapter of the International Thespian Society. On the national office's records they were ITS Troupe # 3117, but Newman students knew them as the mainstays of the "Newman Players." The club was an honor society, not only for actors and actresses but for all people interested in theatre. ITS secretary Shari Laiconi said, "ITS is great because all the members are interested in theatre and we all work together on the shows like one big happy family!"

One of the biggest events each year on the Thespian calender were the District and State competitions held in the winter and spring respectively. Newman has in the past received high honors in these competitions including "Excellent" and "Superior" ratings at each level. Club President Bill DelGrosso, commented, "We eneted our third year here at the school and the club is slowly maturing. There also are more and more members being inducted every year which means that there's a growing interest in the theatre. Theatre is one of the best experiances that any one could have because there's nothing like applause."

Service With A Smile

Moderators Fr. Steve Vasek (above) and Mr. Gordon Luikart (right) helped Key Club members to do service with a smile.

When Mr. Luikart was asked the purpose of the Key Club at Cardinal Newman, he stated, "To make as much money as possible and to have as much fun as possible." He continued, "Seriously, we like to work together to raise money for less fortunate and underprivileged people." Members of the club worked together painting new lines in the parking lot, washing teacher's cars, setting up chairs for school assemblies, running the used book sale, and working at the busy book sale at the beginning of the year. They had time for fun at club luncheons and the annual Key Club Car Rally. They hand led their objective of service to the school and community with a smile.

Helping Hands

"I really enjoy the opportunity to help all the kids who wander into the office with hopeless desperate looks." These are the words of junior guidance assistant Sandi Spitale. Everyone has the terrifying experience of having received a guidance slip, as senior Laura O'Leary put it, "When ever I got called down to guidance I thought great, another deficiency."

The people who went to guidance were aided and sometimes comforted by the assistants. They were senior and junior girls who gave of their time on a rotating basis before and after school to help the guidance department run more smoothly. Why did these people come in at a quarter to eight and stay until three? "We work here because we were asked to, it turned out to be a lot of fun and at least we're helping out a little bit at school," commented junior Josepha Cheong

There were plenty of odd jobs that needed to be done, such as stapling, glueing and filing. The girls who were in charge of making appointments for the three guidance counselors were seniors Eileen Cummings, Annis Isminger, Pam Krolczyk, and Julie Moyle. The juniors were Caron Calvert, Josepha Cheong, Lorrain Prieto and Sandi Spitale. Irene Garcia and Karen Wajdowicz took care of seeing that everyone knew about the colleges which were coming and meeting the representatives when they came. Runner Elizabeth Nealon has worked in guidance since she was a freshman. Senior Karen Wajdowicz sums up what working in guidance is all about, "I have found that helping in guidance has not only made me more familiar with my school environment, but it has made me more conscious of the time and effort used to make the guidance department an excellent center for student services and personal assistance for each individual"

Library Assistants:

They Knew Where To Look

No, the Cardinal Newman library was not just a place where Newman students went to get out of the hot Florida sun. It was a place where minds were expanded through researching for the many papers that were done, cramming for daily tests, and finishing up the night before's homework. One important factor in the smooth running of the library was the devoted library assistants. They were always prepared to answer questions or help a student find a book. As senior Espi Malvarez put it, "I've worked here two years, sophomore year and this year. Sophomore year I didn't really like it because I didn't know what I was doing; this year I know what I'm doing so I can help a lot so I like it a lot better."

Some got to the library at 7.45 every morning, others stayed until 3.00. Their jobs ranged from helping Mrs. Martin set up audio-visual equipment and locate films to replacing books in their proper order. These assistants also checked books in and out and collected overdue fines. The new copy machine greatly reduced their workload. Why did they spend their time behind the bookshelves? As senior Tina Paine puts it, "I just wanted to help."

Forensics:

Training For The Future

The National Forensic League was an organization dedicated to preparing students for the future by helping them to communicate. Through competition with other schools, the members of the N F L at Newman strengthened their ability to speak formally and logically. Mr. Patrick Keenan, the Forensic coach, stated, "Students who participate in the N F L, understand the importance of successful oral communication. It is our belief that the best leader is one that is not only intelligent but can communicate his ideas."

It's Not Just A Job, It's An Adventure.

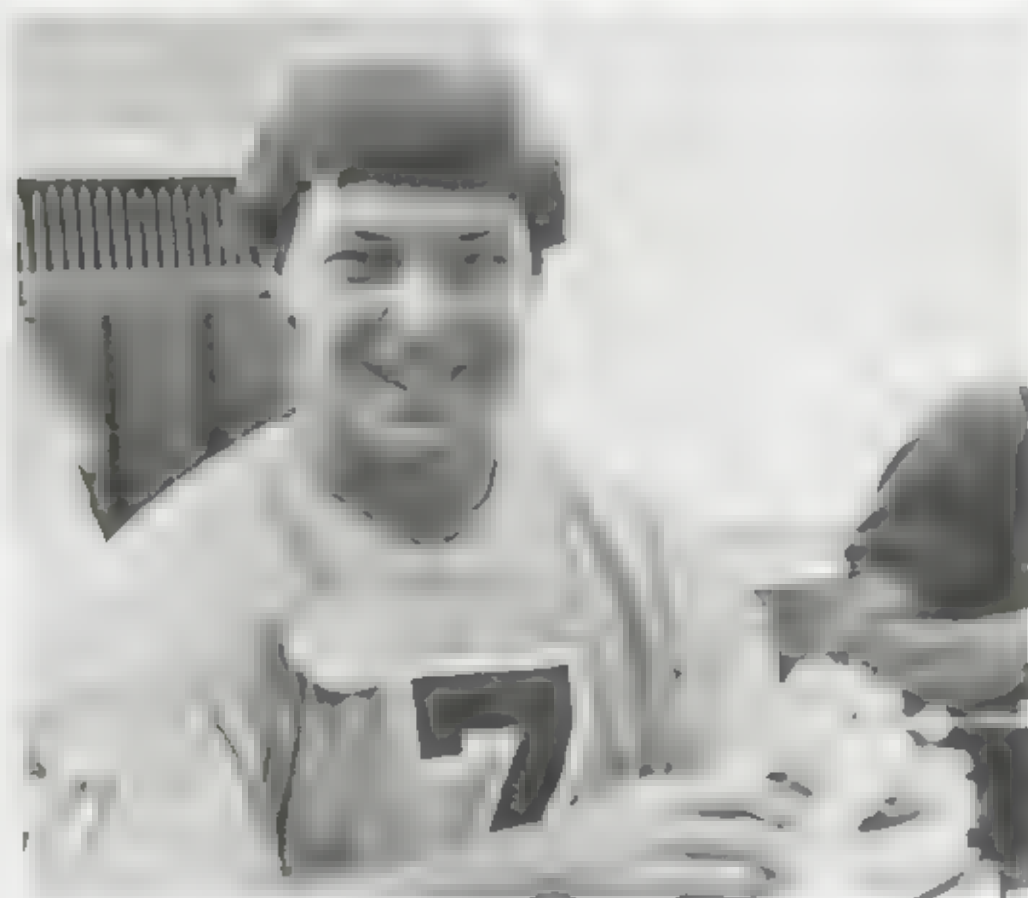

"It's not only an honorary membership, but also the students must be actively involved and attend meetings twice a month." These are some of the requirements of the National Honor Society members according to Miss Leary, former moderator of the N.H.S. The requirements were maintaining a 3.0 average throughout the year. The student must have been actively involved in his community, school, and church, and showed scholarship, leadership, service, and character.

After school they helped other students in need of tutoring. These students also organized career day, held bake sales and car washes, and engaged in the student-administration day where they taught for the day. However, they were required 5 service projects per semester.

What exactly is the N.H.S. striving for this year? According to the new moderator Miss Leannis, "This year we encouraged the students to strive for certain goals in academics, services, and character development."

"When is there going to be a newspaper?" Because of a change in the curriculum even the newspaper made news. Mrs. Eggemeyer, the Newspapers first advisor said, "There were many talented writers such as Senior Vicki Burgess who is a very humorous writer. Senior Jana Schulle is also very talented writer."

Like many things of society today it became a victim of circumstance. Staff member Pam Bachanas said, when asked about the Newspaper said, "We really didn't do much, because we really didn't have much of a chance to do anything." Her quote could be explained by the fact that the class didn't start until the second semester, therefore limiting the time needed for the production of a newspaper. "I tried to teach them the fundamentals of producing a newspaper. Not only did we stress writing abilities, but also reporting and layout design," said the Newspapers second advisor, Mrs. Sharon Mills

Spirit, The Name Of The Game

"The spirit of the fans is the key to victory", said Senior Ana Ballesterro, and that was the goal of the Pep Club. The members of the Pep Club managed to get the players and the spectators psyched for every game this year. They feel that student apathy breeds team uneffectiveness and to see that this did not occur they worked hard to show visible signs of school spirit. Spirit signs were present at every football game (thanks to the Pep Club,) and their resounding cheers assuredly contributed to victory for the mighty Crusaders.

Social Action Club — Involvement And Education

"Involvement and education of students is what the Social Action Club is all about," said Junior Donna Kazimir. The mission and purpose of the Social Action Club this year was two fold, encompassing both the act of assisting the needy in our community and educating students of Cardinal Newman. First, the Social Action Club sought to comfort and aid the elderly, the ill and indigent through projects of community involvement. These actions were illustrative by the concern of young people in the world today and their eagerness to make their mark in a positive light. Second, The Social Action Club sought to make students aware of those less fortunate and educated them in methods of dealing with serious social dilemmas. In doing so, students attempted to follow the principles of Christianity by imitating the actions of Christ and his disciples. Activities during the year including visiting the elderly, coordinating a canned food drive, and participating in the March of Dimes Walk-a-thon

"We Need More Unification"

"We need more unification and support for any major change" was the feeling of Dan Donovan Student Council President. During their meetings, some main topics discussed were uniforms and test days. No earth-shaking changes took place in these areas because of lack of unification. They had a busy schedule of events throughout the school year; the largest project undertaken, of course, was the Student Council Raffle which took place in February. This year for the first time, they took over publishing of the Student Directory, which was formerly a Senior project. Internural Sports were also sponsored by the Student Council. "Mr Schram", the moderator of Student Council, "was behind us all year helping us to accomplish our goals" expisized Dan. When asked what he felt about this years Student Council Dan said, "we tried to listen to everyone and hear new ideas in order to make changes for the good of all the students."

They Gave It 'A Touch Of Class'

"I never realized there were so many technicalities involved. You not only have to be a good writer and photographer but your own coordinator," quoted Pat Malloy after the first deadline. This thought was one that was shared by many of the 1981-1982 Accolade staff

Planning for the book began in the summer months when five staff members "vacationed" at Rollins College for one week to learn the basic fundamentals and red tape involved in putting together a book. After returning home the staff began to sell ads, which was soon postponed due to the fact that the football program had not been published

The theme of "A Touch of Class" was decided upon before school resumed. It was derived from the idea that Cardinal Newman students were not as rude and snobish as others thought and that their class was not the clothes that they wore but the people who wore them

A Day In The Life:

How would you describe an everyday average person? That is the most common kind of person here at Newman. Even though everyone is special in their own way, most people follow a daily routine day after day that doesn't change too often.

Donna Justo, Rodderick Orange and Maureen Gallagher are three students who have such lives, go through the same thing day in and day out.

Getting up, reluctantly in the morning to begin another day. A quick breakfast, a fast glance at the material for today's class and it's out the door to pick up the rest of the carpool. A normal school day and it's home again to do the things that make everyone's life style unique.

Going to work, team practice or doing housework were some of the ways Newman students spent their free time. Everyone did something different and special to make their lives different from everyone else's. Even though, chances are your day was an awful lot like theirs.

Donna Justo TOP, Rodderick Orange MIDDLE and Maureen Gallagher BOTTOM put the finishing touches on the beginning of another day.

A typical Junior. That's how Donna Justo described herself. "I like to think I'm just like everyone else. I like Rock music, junk food and spending time with my friends. I'm normal."

Donna's morning began as she picked up her rider and went off to fight the traffic on the way to school. Her stereo blasted her favorite Journey tape as she arrived at school for another day.

She worked at Iggy's sub shop on the weekends and really enjoys it. Donna concluded, "My life is nothing great, but I have plenty of fun anyway."

Rodderick Orange was a typical sophomore at Cardinal Newman. His days were just like that of many other students. At 6:30 A.M. he rose to greet the new day. Living in Riviera Beach, he allowed fifteen minutes to get to school. Rodderick enjoys Newman and says specifically he likes "the way it's run." His favorite class like that of many freshmen and sophomores was P.E. He took the other required courses which included Biology, English, and math. His one elective as a sophomore was Modern World History.

After school Rodderick went home and had a snack (usually a bologna sandwich). He did homework and watched T.V.; one of his favorite television programs was That's Incredible. He also enjoyed going to movies and although he was not on a team at Newman, he liked to play football in his spare time. At the end of the day Rodderick went to bed usually around 10:30 P.M. to rest up for another typical day in the life of a Cardinal Newman sophomore.

Maureen Gallagher was your typical freshman in some respects, but very different from the norm. Maureen was always immaculately groomed and always had a big smile on her face which finished off her pretty looks. Maureen commented, "Newman is quite a change of pace from my last school, but I do like it." Maureen added that acting was her favorite subject and that she also enjoyed her English classes. "I like the atmosphere and the people and the good looking guys!", she said. Maureen enjoyed cooking and different sports such as racket ball, football, frisbee and swimming. She said, "I like to cook because it's fun and I can please my family while I'm doing it. Plus it helps my mom when she's too busy or tired to make dinner."

On the weekends "Mo", as her friends called her, liked to go to the beach and enjoyed parties, especially smaller parties with her friends. During the year the events that Maureen liked the best were the Punk Dances. "They were great and so wild." Typical Freshman? Not Likely.

Cars

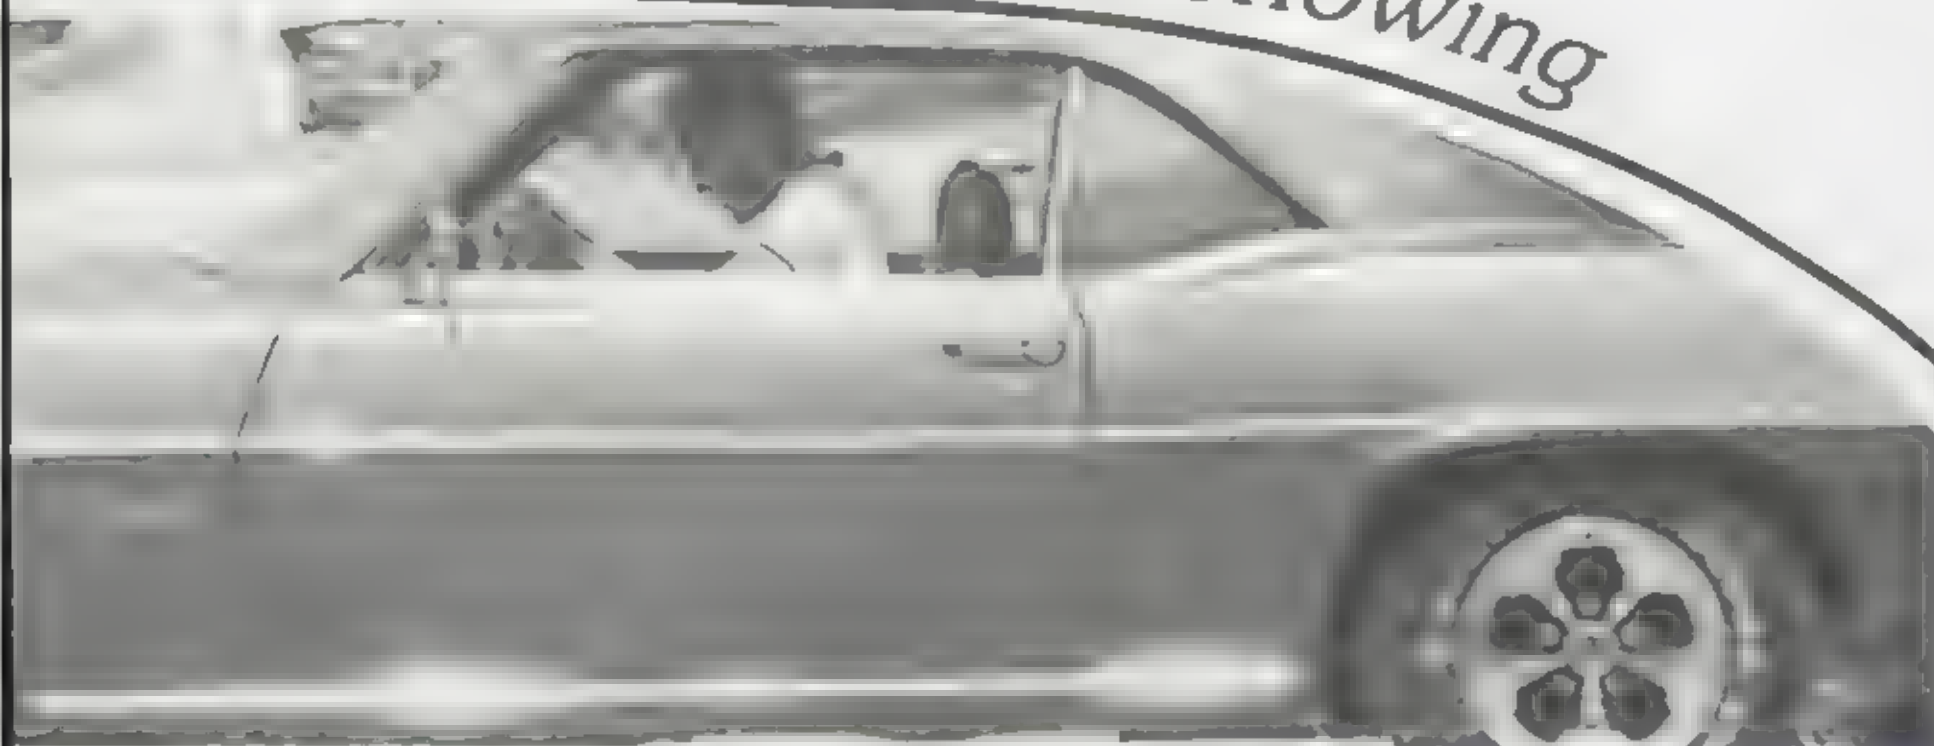

When you looked out over the vast sea of cars in the student parking lot you can see quite a few. In fact, almost 350. But if you looked closer you might notice some rather unique members of this crowd. Had you taken a stroll into the parking lot (which incidentally you shouldn't have been out there anyway) you might have come across these automotive beauties.

Starting with the first line of cars beyond the tennis courts sat Patty Farmer's white RX-7. A sporty little machine when you figure that it can accelerate better than a Porsche 911. Down a few rows and to the left you almost run into Ed Galbraith's '66 blue Mustang Convertible. Ed was also the proud owner of a '66 Shelby 'stang and a '57 T-Bird. Four cars down was David Martoccia's Brown '74 MG, "from the land of Racing Green". Past two old chevys and a Fairmont Station wagon was Stacy Lamoyeux's white Z-28. The car just looked fast even sitting still, remember, it has a 450 under the hood. Sitting under a tree was Louise Stevens' tan Camaro which was quite a popular car with the students at Newman. Every year there seemed to be at least five or six of them in the parking lot. Next to it was Rick Paladino's brown Gucci Cadillac. A very unique car that had the Gucci material for a vinyl roof. One row over was Randy Randolph's green Honda Accord. Hondas used to be no bigger than a bread box, but the Ac cord had plenty of room and better styling than the roller skate look Hondas used to have. Parked on the very edge of the lot was Lisa Caniff's white '72 Corvette. When you say Corvette, visions of driving down a winding California road into a sunset popped into your skull. You slip past the convent and wonder past Mrs. Johnson's white Triumph Spitfire. Now that's a classic old car. Suddenly you saw Mr. Berg coming into the parking lot. Thinking fast you ducked behind this silvery shape that turned out to be a masterpiece of German workmanship, Miss Atherly's Mercedes Benz 450 SLC. You gave it a quick once over and then peered over the hood to see if Mr. Berg was gone. You should have stayed down low and admired the hubcaps because the first thing you heard as you raised your head was, "You've got a three hour detention." Oh well, at least you had some nice cars to think about while you served it.

Reflections From A Veteran

1961-1981: Twenty Years Of Excellence In Education

For the past twenty years, the school has been a place of learning and growth. It has been a place where students have been able to learn and grow, and where teachers have been able to teach and grow.

Our Mission Statement is to provide a high quality education for all students. We believe that every student has the potential to succeed, and we are committed to providing the resources and support necessary for them to do so.

Our Vision Statement is to be a place where every student can reach their full potential. We believe that a high quality education is the key to a successful future, and we are committed to providing the resources and support necessary for them to do so.

Our Core Values are: Integrity, Respect, and Excellence. We believe that these values are the foundation of a successful education, and we are committed to instilling them in our students.

and family, many friends and things to be thankful for. But one of the greatest blessings was placing me at Cardinal Newman, so that I might share the experience of being a part of the Newman family all these years.

Suited To A "T"

"My blouse was in the wash," "My dog chewed it up," "The baby I sat for threw up on it," were all excuses used when trying to vary the uniform code. The simplest way to get out of needing an excuse was to join an organization that had T-shirts. On designated days members of these organizations could come "out of uniform." This gave the students a slight change, the chance to be a little different, and to gain a bit of attention for themselves and their organization.

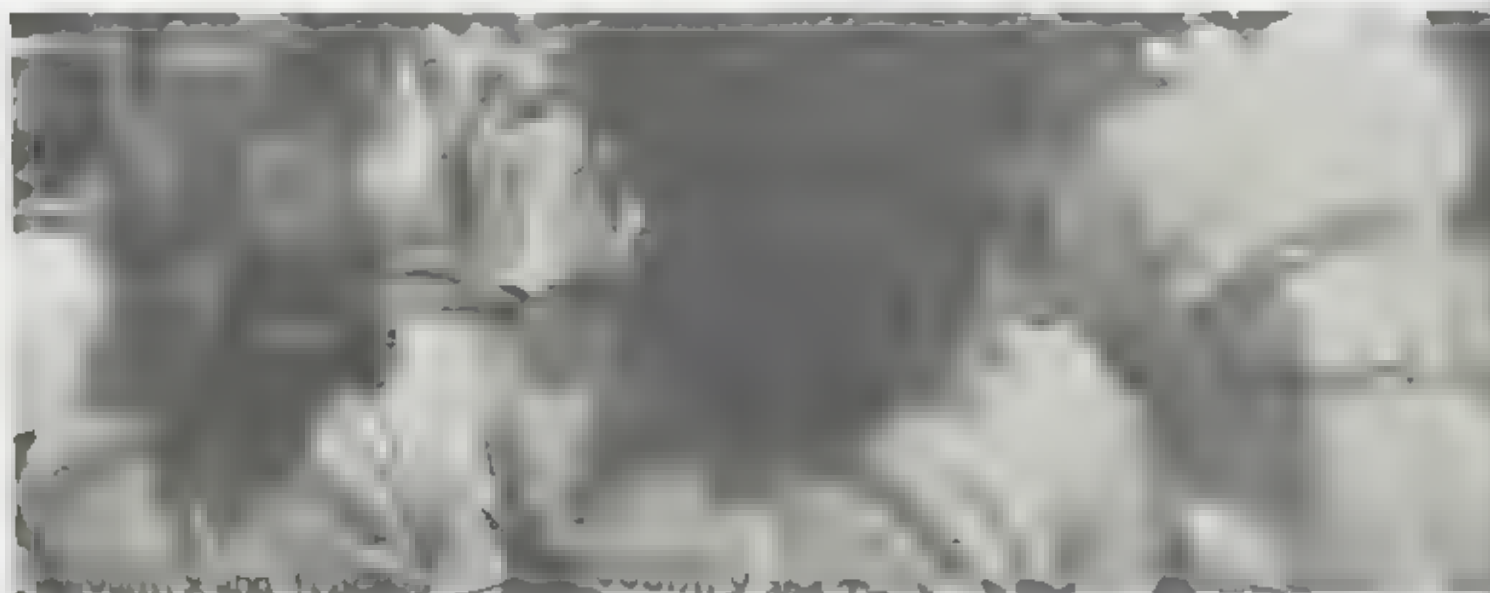

As chorus director, Mrs. Ann Hoyt was responsible for three groups of shirts. The Show Choir wore shirts bearing the name "Rainbow Connection," as did the chorus "Southern Sounds" and the Gingham Girls "Fantasia"

The sports program was also responsible for majority of T-shirts. Teams such as Cross Country, Bowling, Softball, Tennis, Track, Soccer, Wrestling and Volleyball added to the T-shirt population.

The Accolade staff was a club that wore T-shirts to attract attention. Their shirts were baseball jerseys that represented the Yearbook's theme "A Touch of Class". The Fellowship of Christian Athletes was also responsible for a change of pace in the dress code.

Many times during the year students could be seen with T-shirts on and said to be in uniform.

A Mass With Class

Ring Day Mass was important especially for seniors and their families. It was not only a mass at which Seniors had their class rings blessed, but also a time for the students to be welcomed back as Seniors. Ring Day Mass was a time for everyone to congratulate the seniors for making it this far, and to wish them luck in the struggles that they will meet in the upcoming year.

The mass was celebrated in honor of the seniors with Senior class moderator, Father Lemoncelli giving a very special homily. The parents were invited to attend and join the students and faculty in the celebration. Afterwards Juniors gave a reception complete with punch and an assortment of delicious desserts.

For the mass, Seniors were allowed to come out of uniform and many took the opportunity to dress in their finest attire. Everyone looked very special on this special day. The one particular purpose for Ring Day Mass was to reunite the Senior class and the faculty, joining them for the Seniors final year here at Newman.

Teenboard Of The 80's:

Have you ever been walking down the hall and seen five girls in the same outfit? Seem strange? Well these students don't all have the same taste but they were members of teen boards of the local major department stores. The members of the Jordan Marsh Teenboard are Pam Bachanas, Stephanie Collier, Sharlene Wendel, and Lorraine Prieto. Burdines' members include Becky Winokur, Louise Stevens, Cindy Labrador, Ellen Leach, Mary Nealon and the first male member, Greg Kino.

Teenboard members are involved in many different activities. They modeled for the store at fashion shows throughout the year and also do informal modeling in the store. They do service projects such as visiting children in the hospital or raising money for various charities. The members were also given the opportunity to work in the store and gain job experience.

The majority of the members of the teenboards do not wish to pursue a career in Fashion Merchandising or Retail Marketing. Lorraine Prieto, for example, plans to study psychology but feels the teenboard "is a great opportunity to gain experience in working, as well as working with people." On the other hand, Ellen Leach plans to study Fashion Merchandising and Marketing. She finds the teenboard "a great opportunity to work in merchandising" and gives her the "chance to decide if that's the career I'd really like to pursue." Greg Kino, Burdines' first male member said, "I tried out for the teenboard because I thought it would be a unique experience. I knew I might get hassled from some of my male peers but I was determined not to let it bother me." Greg enjoyed being on the teenboard and feels it's a "chance to meet a lot of new and interesting people." Although being a member of a teenboard may sound glamorous, all the members agree there is a lot of hard work involved.

All Night Long

"For Newman Forensics, this is Scott Murray, have a nice weekend!" This quote triggered the beginning of the end for the Newman community thirty-six times during the year. It started the weekend. The word weekend meant many things to many people. Weekends were synonymous with a whole dictionary full of terms.

One such term that came to the minds of many a Newman student was the word party, which is verb not a noun as the Oxford English Dictionary would have you believe. A party was an event that you could go to and just get crazy for a night in an atmosphere looser than school. "I like big parties better because you can see more of your friends there," said sophomore Ed Beerman.

Beach parties were also popular and many sprouted up all over including Singer Island and all the way down at Phipp's park. Another hot spot for partying was Chapel-By-The-Lake, which was picked because of its beautiful location on Lake Worth.

Fridays were spent for first three months of the year at the Crusader football games, cheering on the team or just watching the cheerleaders. Later on came the basketball games and then baseball. Sports were a major part of weekends for the players and the fans. The players revelled in the spirit of competition, that capped off a week of hard practices and the fans got a great way to spend some time cheering on our teams.

Saturdays meant rest for some and work for others. For senior, Kelly Daly, who worked at the Fashion Corner in the Twin City Mall, work was not only a source of income, but an advantage. She said, "I work with clothes so I get to see a lot of the new styles when they first come out."

... And Into The Day!

All this was soon forgotten as the sun went down and gave birth to that magical time known as Saturday nights. It was a time for many Newman kids to get together and share the night with that special someone. Movies were very popular for this purpose and such films as "Stripes", "Body Heat", and "Rocky Horror Picture Show" were enjoyed.

This was a small sampling of the way Cardinal Newman let it's hair down after a tough week. Weekends were a time for these things, but this quote by senior, Robby Farmer probably said it all, "A weekend is anything you make it."

Homecoming 1981

Hi Folks. Mickey here and I'd like to tell all you mouseketeers about Homecoming 1981.

Boy, it was fun! At first I was a little nervous because I didn't know what to expect.

For welcome I walked down Main Street and saw a lot of people.

about 300 students wearing King James with Yours Truly on them. In addition, all those Senior hats for Senior hat day.

During all the lunches on Monday and Tuesday seniors were sold as slaves.

There didn't do anything for laughs! Monday night there was a real hoo-down at the senior dance.

Well, for the students and faculty.

My first experience was a lot of fun. Many of the students and teachers were excited.

My first experience was two of the floats.

On Thursday representatives from all the schools came to the assembly to see the homecoming floats.

Many weeks of planning and preparation were made. These floats were fantastic.

They were so life-like that they made me feel at home. The Senior float won and I must admit it was probably because of the picture of me painted on the float. The parade was a lot of fun.

The parade was presented after an outstanding pep rally. The seniors can really make a lot of noise, but the Juniors outdid everyone else and won the pep rally.

competition. After the parade there was a carnival. It seemed almost like I was walking down Main Street at home. Homecoming Night started off with a thrilling game against Forest Hill. The score was 36-0. And towards the end of the night we had a fun time with myself. I danced out at the Victory Dance. The Homecoming week concluded Saturday when students either dined at fancy restaurants or cruised around Palm Beach County on the Island

Queen Ferry Boat. Over all, it was a pretty impressive week. I certainly won't forget it!

M-I-C, see ya real soon, K-E-Y, why because we like you, M-Q-U-I-S-E.

It all began with the Kinks. No, not the ones in the chicken-wire, but the music that was blaring from the many cars that had filled the famous "Sticker Bowl". The Seniors had been up all night and were off to a roaring start. As of 9 O'Clock neither the Sophomores nor the Juniors had a trailer. Freshmen were desperately trying to assemble a float and paint at the same time. In front of the cafeteria, Juniors were painting the many signs that were to soon cover their trailer-less float. At 9:05 a Murphy construction truck arrived with the Junior's trailer, much to their relief. At 9:38 the lumber arrived for the Seniors and the towering masts went up. The Sophomore's submarine arrived via the Magil trailer. It must have been Spring, for flowers were popping up all over the field. The Sophomores were busy designing signs in the raquetball court. At 10:00 the music was about the only thing moving; the students were in their mid-morning slump. The Seniors, instead of working on the cement, chose the hood of Erin Peter's car for painting, and Bill DeGrosso's hood for papermacheing. At 10:15 the sun began to rise on the Sophomore's float and clouds began to form. Rest time came during lunch when slowly each class went and returned from the cafeteria.

After lunch the work load doubled and time began to be the determining factor. The Seniors completed the finishing touches on their float at 1:45. Meanwhile, the Juniors were still assembling their float. The Freshmen had been finished for over an hour and the Sophomore's squid was oozing right along.

At last, the moment of truth! After the pep rally the floats were displayed in the 2nd annual Float Parade for everyone to see. "It was a lot of work," said Doug DeSantis, Senior, "but the cheers of approval were worth every minute of it."

November 20, 1981 marked an important day for the class of 1982. It was the last high school football game and the last Homecoming. The Senior Spirit really shone through during Homecoming week with the Seniors winning in the over-all competition. Although it was typical that seniors win Homecoming competition, the class of '82 broke that record as Sophomores with their "Sophomore Mania" Theme and again as Juniors with "Ruff and Rowdie." Even though the Juniors won the pep rally this past year, the Seniors still "Went Bananas." Leslie Kintz, a Senior, said "I think that Homecoming week was a great success." Fr. Hank Lemoncelli summed up his feelings by saying "Homecoming week, without the help of all involved, would have been impossible." So, thanks to "all", Homecoming 1981 was unforgettable.

INTERRUPTIONS

"It just goes to show you, it's always something! If it's not one thing it's another!" This quote from an old Gilda Radner routine said it all when referring to the subject of interruptions. Interruptions were varied this year and there were many things that broke up the school day with some of them exemplified here

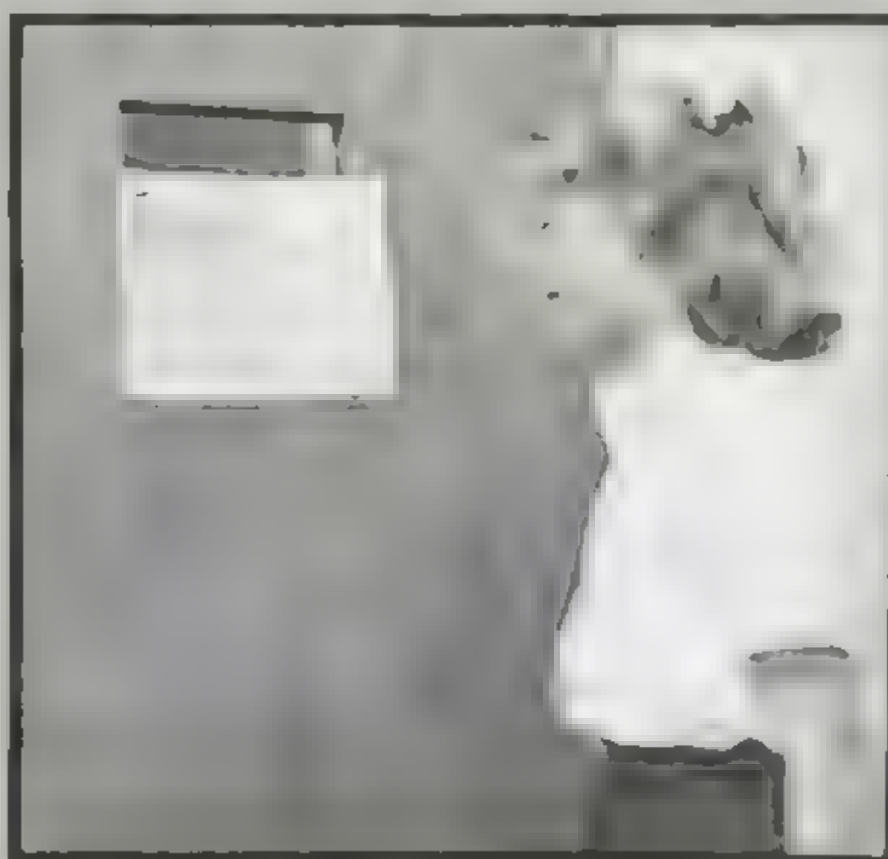

Many students could hardly forget the sudden interruption of the bomb scare that occurred early in September. Students and even teachers enjoyed the break that lasted almost forty minutes. The enjoyment was shortlived when Fr. Curley announced that the time was to be made up after school. Sophomore class President Jannie Matheson commented, "I think that it was the wrong thing to do because if other schools get wind of this they'll be calling all the time and we'll be staying after all the time."

Another interruption of sorts were guidance appointments. These sessions, that lasted on the average twenty minutes, facilitated discussions about everything from GPA's to SAT's. Scott Jacobs, sophomore, said, "Guidance appointments can be good interruptions as long as you don't miss anything important and you spend the time wisely." Scott also said that he tried to make one appointment per semester and usually he discussed his grades with Sr. Mary Mark.

During second periods on Thursdays and Fridays Fr. Vasek scheduled confessions that gave the opportunity for the students to interrupt their studies to seek God's forgiveness. Fr. Vasek used a technique of notification that was innovative. What he did was to go around to all the rooms and place a sign in the door window announcing the confession schedule. Mrs. Judy Wright commented, "That's a good idea because he doesn't have to walk in and disturb the class discussion. His method allows me to announce confessions at my leisure when there's a break in class."

"Interruptions are annoying and very rude, especially when I'm trying to make a point in class and someone cuts me off", said Junior Paul Leder. Many students agreed with Ronnie Guthrie, senior when she said, "I hate interruptions the most when I'm trying to study!"

Studying: It's Child's Play!

A well known fact among Newman students was that they had to study, that is if they had the desire to graduate from Cardinal Newman High School. The questions which remain are: where, when, how, and why do students study? A very logical answer to the first question was

Cardinal Newman's very own library. It has always been a very tranquil spot, open both before and after school, and had a wealth of information. Since the library was open in the morning, before school and until 3:30 in the afternoons, the question "when?" had already been answered. How? Open the book from which one wishes to study and begin reviewing or reading the material. If extra research was required, Newman has several knowledgeable librarians who have always been here, especially to assist Newman students in finding what they wanted. The final question to be answered was why, and often so much studying, one certainly ought to know! Of course, these are just the basic where's, when's, how's, and why's. There are others which many students found more convenient or desirable. For instance, all Newmanites remembered that late night cramming in bed, in front of the T.V., or at the kitchen table! And then there was the review in the carpool on the way to school, or studying during each of the three classes before THE TEST AND still feeling as if none of that information could be recalled during the test. Also the great majority of students had the sickening feeling of defeat and failure days before the test, and for that Newman Students do not make this their common study system, as regular studying will warrant much better results, from both the "old report card," and the parents!

Juniors Establish A Tradition Bound For Rebound!

It all started on a hot afternoon in January. The Junior class officers and representatives were together trying to think of a way to make money for prom and a way to promote Basketball Spirit. The Juniors, in their usual brilliant manner, came up with a solution to both problems with one answer. That answer was a Rebound Week, similar to Homecoming Week only on a smaller scale. The reason for the reduction in activities was that Rebound Week was planned for the week before the visitation of the school's accreditation team. The theme, "We love the Crusaders" was chosen and organizational meetings with other class officers and moderators were held in Rm 205.

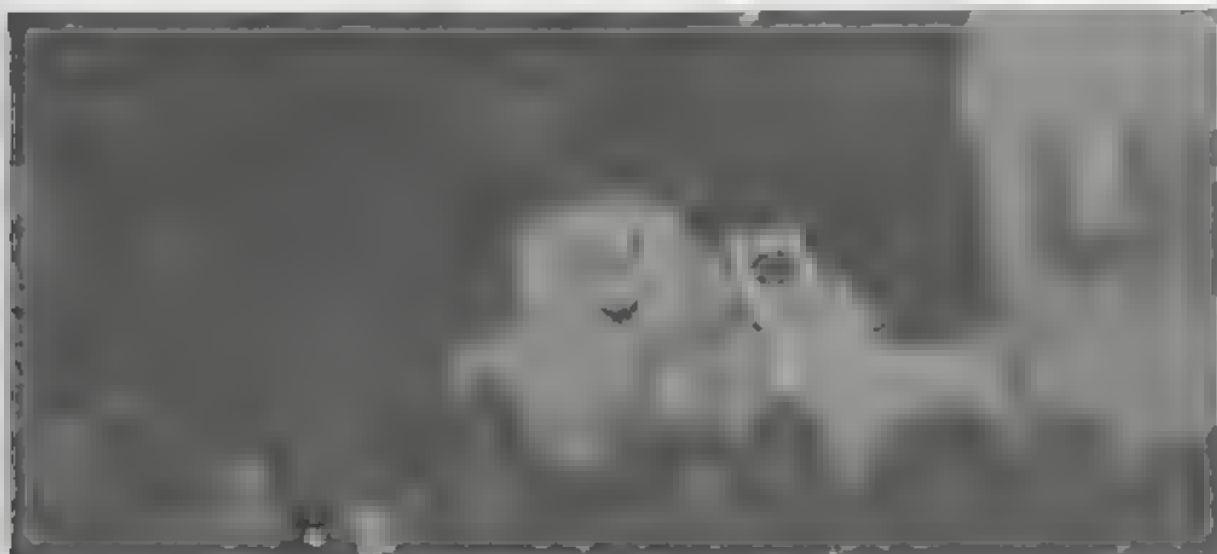

Rebound Week began on February 1, 1982 with the Freshmen in school, out of uniform. On Tuesday, Sophomores were allowed to come out of uniform. Wednesday brought an in-school victory over Atlantic Girl's Basketball team and the Seniors were out of uniform. Thursday was the day for Juniors out of uniform and the final day of preparation for a highly competitive Banner contest. Friday, everyone dressed in red to go with the theme of "We Love the Crusaders" and the day ended with a rousing Pep Rally that was won by the spirited sophomores. During the Pep Rally all members of the girls and boys Varsity JV & freshmen Basketball teams were introduced, along with the candidates for Sweetheart King and Queen. The Pep Rally concluded with the announcement Banner Contest winner the senior class.

The week concluded with a highly successful dance that featured the music of Rockingham. At the dance the candidates were again introduced. Vicky Peacock and Jim O'Rourke represented the Freshmen. Marni Schnerder and Kurt Stelzer represented the sophomores. Anne Titsel and John Carney were the Junior representatives and Erin Peters and Chris McKenna represented the Seniors. In an election that seemed most appropriate for the hard-working Juniors, Ann Titsel was crowned Newman's first Sweetheart Queen and Chris McKenna the school's first King

Rebound Week was such a success that everyone felt it was the beginning of a school tradition. Coach Arbogast was most appreciative and thanked all of those involved, during the Pep Rally. Junior Class President Matt McGrath, perhaps the most involved student in all of the activities of the week commented, "We worked hard but we also had a good time. Best of all it was for a good cause!"

Hey Funny Face: Got'cha!

Question — What does everyone have, though two may look similar non are alike? No, not a pair of docksiders, a face

No one had mastered the art of making a face better then the students and faculty of Cardinal Newman. No, they did not make just the normal happy, sad, glad, and mad faces. There was the "Who me?" face and the "Not me Mr. Berg" face. Also Mr Mike Wisniewski's "intellucal professor" face and senior Linda Serrese's "and I pay $950 a year for this" face. Lastly was Miss Lina Veenker's "poor teacher making a fool out of herself emerging from a cream pie" face

But no matter what face was made or why it was done, if someone from New man did it, it was done with "class".

Are You Satisfied Now?!

"Are you going to have those funny captions with the pictures this year?"
"What happened to the funny pictures?"

Well everyone, back by popular demand, a few pages for you with captions under funny pictures. Are you satisfied now?

One thing that people do not understand about making witty and clever remarks for pictures is the effect that it had on the people who were sacrificed for the sake of a good laugh. For the reader it seemed perfectly alright to thumb through a yearbook and get a good chuckle out of seeing a picture of a student with the caption, "Oh gosh! It's the 19th hour on my 18 hour girdle." Or a teacher staring out at an open field with, "Where did my class go?" Or someone with their finger in their mouth and "I thought you were over that?" under it.

One person who was subjected to this was freshman P.E. teacher, Mr. James Arbogast. In the 1979-1980 Accolade there was a picture of him and a caption stating, "Newman's Pillsbury Dough boy." Mr. Arbogast stated, "It was not that I was offended by the caption, but when the underclassmen began to address me as 'Doughboy', I was a bit angry. It seemed that they were not mature enough to handle it. Also, if I could have approved it first, it would have been better. Some people do get offended by it."

Sports

Varsity Football player, Scott Jacobs, sophomore and Varsity Cheerleader, Erin Peters, senior represent the "Touch of Class" that all Newman athletes possess.

Caution:

Slippery When Wet!

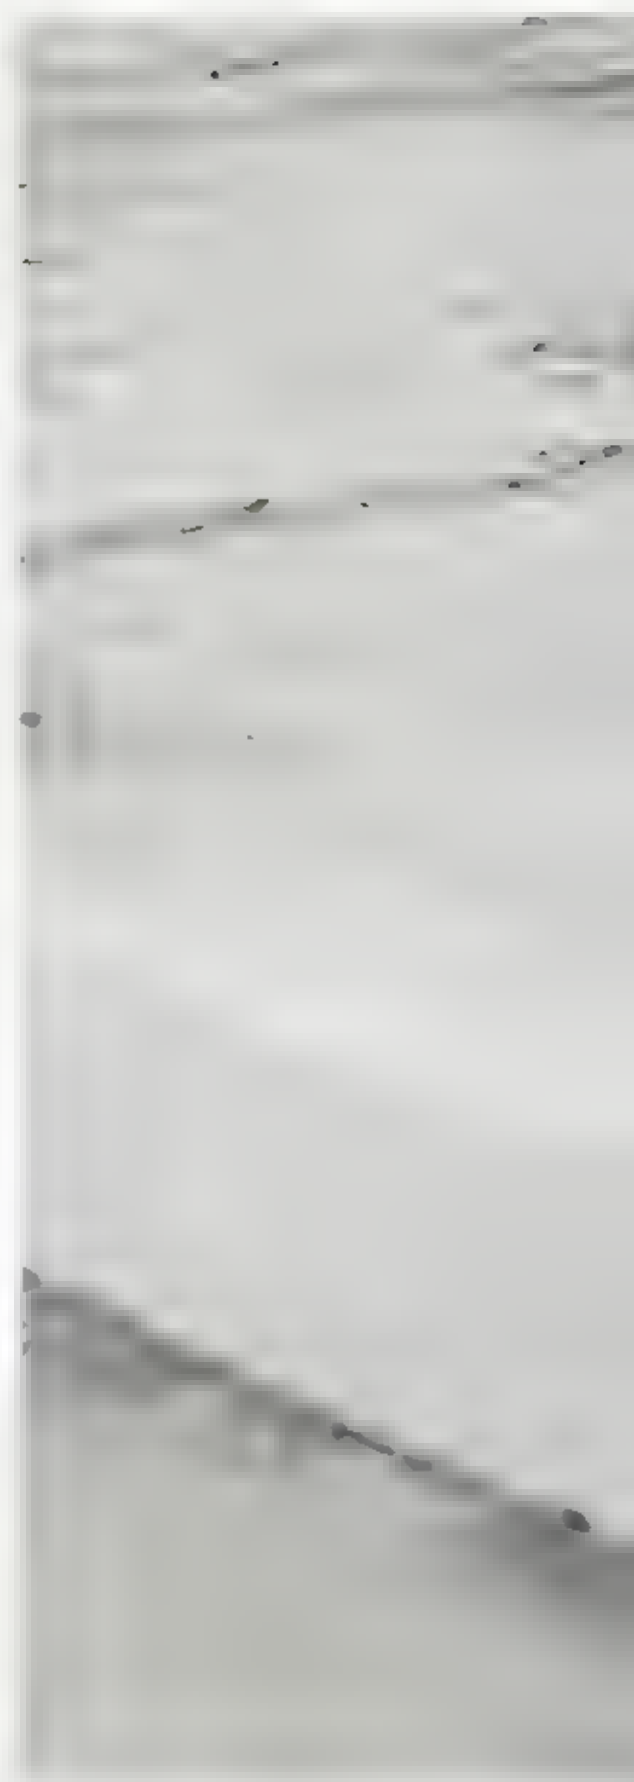

When anyone saw Matt Cetlinski in school the idea of a quiet, intelligent, rather ordinary Newman student came to mind. The quiet and intelligent observations were correct but anyone who saw him as ordinary should have seen an eye doctor. Without bragging or boasting, but in a quiet, reserved way, he has exploded in to a class competitor in one of the most grueling sports; Swimming

Matt put in over twenty hours a week while training for competition. This entailed 5 o'clock in the morning practices every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday and weight training three times a week. Few athletes would be willing to pay this price for success, but it seems that Matt has gotten every pennies' worth of his time and work.

When asked what he learned from his experience as a swimmer, he replied, "It has really taught me how to budget my time and organize myself so that I can use my time wisely. It also taught me the value of working hard for what I want to accomplish."

Though Matt went to State as a freshman, he did not place until he was a sophomore getting 2nd in the 500 yard Freestyle and 7th in the 200 yard freestyle. Although he was already respected, he did not dominate competitions until last year. Then he set a new State record in the 500 yard Freestyle, placed 2nd in the 200 yard Freestyle, and was named a "First team All-American "

Last summer Matt also competed against the Russians in the Junior National competition. While he did not win an event, he has yet to lose to a Russian. He put his reputation on the line this year when he went to Brazil to compete against teams from Russia, Brazil, and Argentina for the U S National Team. At only 17, Matt has become one of the top freestyle swimmers in the world and seems destined to compete in the Olympics. With the help of Coach Buddy Baorke, all that can be said is, "See you in Los Angeles!"

Keeps Getting Better!

The good keeps getting better. The Cardinal Newman basketball team is better than ever. Throughout the year the Newman basketball team showed poise and determination and also surprised a lot of teams. Usually the Crusader attendance at basketball games has been poor, but this year has proved differently. The fan attendance has increased due to the fact of our surprising Crusader basketball team. Larry Stelzer, junior, says "I think we have a great team and we will mess some of the good teams up and surprise a lot of people."

Basketball just like any other sport requires good sportmanship and excessive body and temper control, not only from the players but from the coach also. Coach Arbogast has coached the basketball team for four years and has done a commendable job. Coach Arbogast feels this is the best team he has coached since he has been here. He also stated, "We have more speed, quickness and better shooting and we're looking to cause a lot of trouble."

Liz Nealon, senior, said "It's worth going to the games just to see the players plus I think they're hot!"

Bowling

Spare Me No Strikes

This year's bowling team experienced short-lived success. The boy's team lead the league during the first half of the season. In the second half they lost their top position to P.B.G.H.S.

The girl's team also enjoyed first place ranking until the final two weeks of the season. When all the matches were finished and the points were counted, neither of the Newman teams came out on top. The boy's team finished with a third place ranking. The girls went one step better than the boys with a second place showing.

The teams were moderated by Mr. Patrick O'Hare. The captain of the boy's team was Tom DeLoretto. The girl's team was lead by Schree Hach.

One of the things that held back the boys team were the handicaps. On the other hand, the girls were helped by the handicaps placed on the other teams. The purpose of the handicap is to eliminate any unfair advantage and allow competition among the teams.

One point of interest is that the bowling team had to furnish their own uniforms. Members of the bowling team were not allowed to receive a varsity letter at the end of the season. The reason for this being that bowling is not considered as a sport at Cardinal Newman High School, as Coach Sam Budnyk so aptly explained, "Bowling is not recognized as a sport in the State of Florida. The Florida Athletic Association Recognizes it as a club-sport. A good example of this would be the first year of girl's soccer was only considered as a club-sport, and there were only a few teams in the county. Because of this, there were no playoffs or state championships in girl's soccer, as was the case in bowling."

Ready . . . Hit

As they gathered around in a circle and joined hands, thoughts of the last four days ran through their minds. It was four days of fun mixed with hard work. The cheering camp was enjoyment for all of the cheering team. They made a few new friends and shed a few tears, because all of the fun had to come to an end.

The fact that camp was ending didn't mean the end for them. At camp the 1981-82 Varsity Cheering Squad was awarded first place in the United States Cherring Association, (U.S.C.A.). In addition Erin Peters was awarded most spirited, Lisa Caniff placed second, Anne Titzel placed third and Maria Rosa Chibas received an honorable mention.

Anne Titzel junior feels that people think cheering is classy and glamorous, but it really involves a lot of hard work. Angella Mitchell Junior, says "Each cheerleader has her own style and that blended together makes the best squad that Newman has had."

As for the Junior Varsity squad, they had a slow start, but as the year progressed they were moving in the right direction. They are a well organized and united group of young ladies. Joe Caforio senior says "Cheerleaders work harder than people really think, and that the football players really do appreciate the things the cheerleaders do."

And Miles To Go!

"Here she comes, just a walkin' down the street singin' Do Wa Day Diddy Dum, Diddy Do." This chant could be heard miles away by the Boys Cross Country Team. There was a special relationship between that group, they ran together as a team. Their coach, Mr. Jim Maginn agreed as he explained, "There were many new people on the team this year, but their tremendous effort overshadowed their inexperience." Freshman Tommy Metzger, stated, "I like the sport and Coach Maginn a lot, but what I really like is the competition." Tommy also plans to come out for cross country next year too. Team Captain, senior Greg Kino, also commented, "I had a very disappointing season due to illness, but returned because the sport is very much worth it." Greg feels that next years team will be even better and sincerely hopes that Cross Country will receive more recognition in the future because it deserves it.

Almost everyday after school a group of the team members could be found in or around room 202 asking for strategic or personal advice from their coach. When asked his thoughts about Mr. Maginn, Perry Mitchell, senior cross country member commented, "He's a friend and he understands all of us individually."

Mr. Maginn admitted he enjoyed coaching when stated, "I prefer to coach boys because I can psychologically relate to them." Mr. Maginn was a runner-himself in high school and in his college days at St. Bonaventure University, in New York.

In final description of his team Coach Maginn claimed, "Though I make my mistakes, they're a good bunch of guys who'll always come through for me!"

Off And Running

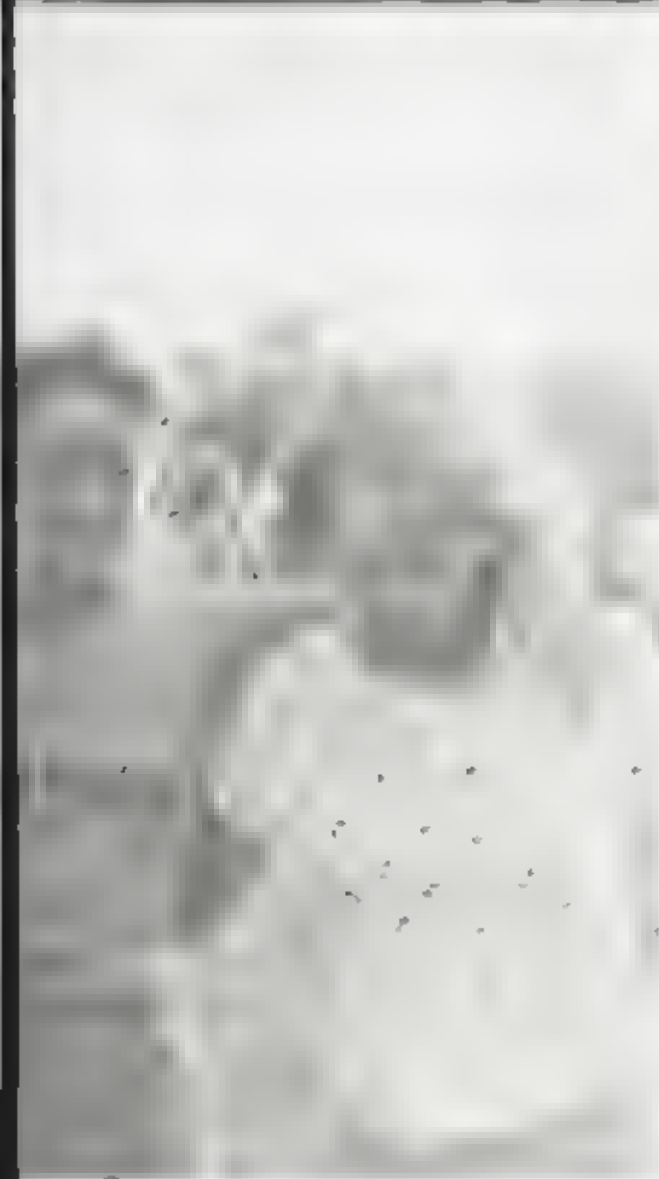

"Do you think the coach will give us a killer workout today?" These were the words heard almost everyday by the members of the cross-country team. The sport of cross country was one of endurance. There were times when the team just did not want to practice but the workouts paid off when winners were announced at meets or individual times were broken.

When asked about the team spirit and success, sophomore team member Shelly Austgen stated, "I think we had a good season because of the many seniors on the team. The team lost some great seniors." In the eyes of senior cross country team member Diana DaGrosa this year's team did so well because they had the most spirited team ever. This year's team was led by a captain of a different breed, senior Marolyn Rhoades. Marolyn was truly a "Pied Piper" and the team unanimously agreed that she was the best captain any of them had ever known. She stuck with them through everything and was always there to listen and provide companionship. These qualities are important for a leader in a sport such as cross country.

The Cross-Country team was coached by Mr. Harry Howell Jr. who admitted he was encouraged to run in high school, by his dad. "It's hard not to get involved when it runs in the family," he stated. Mr. Howell also commented that coaching "has its highs and lows but I wouldn't trade the girls for anyone else." Mr. Howell concluded by praising his team and commenting that they were appreciated more at a Catholic school because of the reputation that Catholic schools have for cross country. So, Newman is a school that appreciated its cross country team — one that was successful in bringing together team mates as well as friends.

King Of The Hill

As King 'O the Hill, Cardinal Newman Varsity Football truly lived up to its top billing during the 1981 Season. Through the years, Newman has built a tradition of winning, unparalleled in this area. One of the main reasons for this tradition is a coach who is also unparalleled in this area, Coach Sam Budnyk

Coach Budnyk is a graduate athlete from the University of Notre Dame and has been Newman's football coach for twenty years. Under his guidance from the very beginning, Newman has built a reputation as one of the powerhouse teams in South Florida. During these years Coach Budnyk has tutored many good high school football players into excellent college prospects. The most recent being Jon Moyle who is now with the University of Florida and Tony Walker who is at South Carolina

TEAM FOR THE 80'S

With a seventeen and three record in the first two years of the 80's, Cardinal Newman has truly established itself as the team of the 80's. The team finished the season with nine wins and 1 loss and was ranked ninth in the state. The Crusaders also won the Suncoast West Conference for the first time since 1972 while posting five all-conference players and two on the all-area team.

While possessing such talent it is easy to see why the Crusaders are truly going to be the team of the 80's. With a winning tradition such as Newman's and a coaching legend the Crusaders clearly distinguished themselves as a team for the 80's.

The Proving Ground

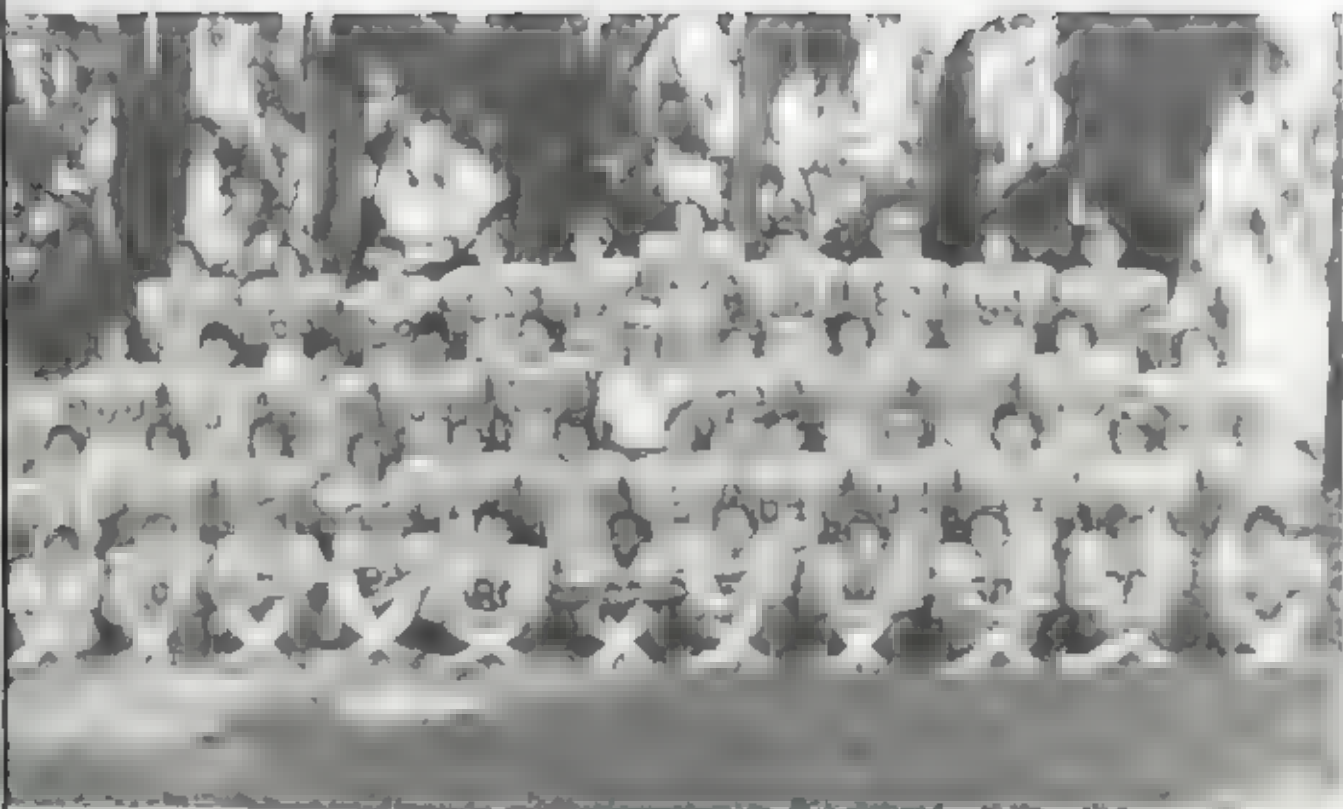

Junior Varsity and Freshman football has been considered by many to be the cornerstone of a perennial powerhouse varsity team. While spending two years below the varsity level these youngsters have gotten the opportunity to prove what they could do to obtain a varsity starting spot.

While winning was important it was not the only thing emphasized on the lower levels. The coaches also tried to build character, poise and good sportsmanship. Coach Wisniewski and Coach Steffes both felt that they had "A good group of kids that possess an excellent amount of potential." Even with all this potential and talent it was not easy to win every game. Athletes learn from their mistakes and there was a lot of learning to be done before they would be a first rate team.

There were many promising athletes on the junior varsity team such as; Bob Miller, Rich Delessio, Don Clemons, Don Collins and Colin O'Connor. While these players possess a lot of talent and promise to be excellent players on the varsity team, they have some awfully big shoes to fill. Let's hope they're up to the task.

Tee Time

When Mr. O'Hare picked up his golf club for the first time, it would have been safe to assume that he didn't dream of being a golf coach at Newman one day. He only golfed occasionally, for relaxation, until he injured his neck. He says he enjoys the game and is looking forward to this season with optimism. "I feel we're one of the top teams in the area and have a good chance to win Districts." When asked who his key players would be this season, he stated, "I look for David Ladd and Billy Frey to head the team and Jim Curran has looked impressive in practice. For the girls' I feel Leslie Kintz without a doubt, even though I really haven't put my team together yet."

The players were also optimistic about the season. "We're going to State", exclaimed Billy Frey. When asked about Mr. O'Hare, he said, "he doesn't know that much about golf but he has really gotten his team organized. I think he'll contribute a lot to the team. He provides a great deal of leadership and that's the most important part of being a coach." With such unbridled optimism, it looks like the only way to go is up.

The 1982 baseball team had a grueling season with many heart aches and depressing situations. The team faced games in which they were beaten by as many as seven or eight points but the real let downs set in with the one or two point losses. This years team was lead by senior Joe Caforio, three year letterman, Lance Beckman, Kevin Fiedor, John Grieb and Robert Cusenza. So this year was a year of rebuilding for next year, the low before the high so to speak. With the tremendous ability to grow the players looked forward to next year

Newman Soccer: 1982 Team Was "Right Unt"!

Cardinal Newman fielded a strong soccer team for the 1981-1982 season. Under a new head coach, Mr. Barthle, the Crusaders stressed a strong defense and a controlled passing game. This was aided by fifteen returning lettermen, seven of whom were seniors.

The new game plan worked and Cardinal Newman had its best season since the school started a soccer team four years ago. Seniors Ed Galbraith and Bobby Kreusler established themselves as team leaders with their exceptional plays. Goalie Bobby Kreusler's superb goal keeping kept Newman from many a defeat and Ed Galbraith played both offense and defense from his fullback position. Senior Ed Galbraith commented, "With our fifteen returning lettermen, we finally played to our ability."

The improvement of Cardinal Newman soccer team has kept in pace with the growing national favor for the sport.

— Newman Style

Over the past few years, the girls' softball team at Cardinal Newman has earned a reputation as an excellent group of athletes. The team for 1982 was a team of great expectations. During the 1981 season, the girls earned a chance at the state championship and came out victorious. Despite the loss of a few key players, the girls worked for greatness this year also.

The State Championship is a goal of virtually every Newman athlete. Few teams successfully reach the State Competition and win the Number One ranking. Perhaps the taste of victory was sweet enough for the girls softball team to succeed once again, and set an example for the rest of the school.

Splash It Up!

Since February 2nd, they practiced from 3:30 to 5:00 on weekdays at Howard Park pool. The coach, Mrs. Patricia Chenette feels that her swimmers are hard workers, both in the water and out. "These kids get fantastic grades. They know how to budget their time with practice and homework." This is a very good quality for athletes who wish to compete in a sport as time-consuming as swimming.

Newman's home pool is at Howard Park pool, where many swim meets were held. The individual events, scoring between one and six points, included the backstroke, the breaststroke, the butterfly, and free style.

Senior swim team member Bill Brinkley stated "It is a lot of hard work; it takes time and perserverence, but I do it for self-satisfaction." Mrs. Chenette agreed and added, "It makes them feel good when they compete and espically when they win."

Most of the swimmers were not on any kind of diet during the season. However Mrs. Chenette stressed the importance of carbohydrates before a meet in order to build energy.

While swimming is a very challenging sport, it is also a very relaxing one too. "The kids need the competition, but swimming takes a load off the shoulders. It actually makes the pressures melt away."

The swim team strived to meet their own goals and they accomplished that this season. They experienced victory and defeat as Mrs. Chenette puts it "This experience is something they can carry with them and they'll always have those great memories."

Wrestling 1982

The Mat Is Where It's At

Wrestling at Newman is a sport that attracts athletes of all shapes and sizes. This is true because the sport relies more on balance, technique, and conditioning than on strength and size.

Four year veteran of the Newman Varsity team, Robby Acosta, was the captain of the 1981-82 team. Robby has gone to the state championship all four years. He will definitely be missed from next year's team. Other four year veterans were Ronnie Oen and Robby Neher. The outstanding wrestlers of last year were Robby Acosta, Ronnie Oen, Todd Erikson, Kurt Kapsos, John Raich, Pat Maloy, Drew Meyerowich, and Tom Glancey.

Coach Wisniewski stated, "Last year's team had a successful year even though it was expected to finish with only a 500 season. The competition we faced last year in the county was really stiff. This is going to help us next year even though we lost some of our outstanding senior wrestlers."

Mr. Wisniewski owed success to a "solid senior lineup backed up by some decent wrestling especially on the under-class level (Freshman and Sophomores).

The addition of ex-Newman wrestler, Bob Matyskiel, to the coaching staff and the aid of Chris Hulme and Bobby Oen totalled up to a great coaching staff. This made Coach Wisniewski's job much easier and allowed more individual coaching attention for the wrestlers.

One outstanding point about last year's J.V. team was that they held the best record of any Newman J.V. team yet.

Up And Over — Newman Volleyball!

What would you have called a group of girls bouncing up and down slapping at a silly white ball? A punk rock dance right? Wrong! The right answer was the Cardinal Newman girl's volleyball team. Volleyball was much more than that and playing encompassed mastery of many different skills. Miss Lila Veekner, assistant coach said, "The most important skill would probably be the serve, because if you can't serve, you can't score." Liz Ann Butler, senior, claimed, "Bumping is really important to return the serve and is the best asset to have."

Head coach Miss Courtney commented, "Graduation definitely hurt us and we lost a lot of varsity players. Right now there are more underclassmen than Seniors. We're definitely a young team." Besides their inexperience, the team members were tough competitors and when defeat came, they licked their wounds and came out strong at the next game. Both J-V and Varsity were not teams to be toyed with. Team spirit was another big factor with the '81-82 teams. Senior Tish Howell said, "We have one thing over all the other teams in the conference because we relate like one big happy family. Whenever there's a birthday or something, there's always a cake or cards. We all celebrated personal triumphs and losses as well as the team's."

If the word "Mrs. Baker" appeared in the dictionary the definition would read as follows; a hip chemistry teacher; a unique nice-looking, intelligent and caring person who displayed an all around classy style

After five years of teaching at Cardinal Newman Mrs. Baker decided it was time to move on and Engineering was the call. Her stay at Newman was equal to that of her two daughters. After four years as a member of the science department she became the department head and the responsibility was one handled without flaw.

She touched the lives of many and loved her work. It's hard to believe that there was a teacher that could actually make chemistry class fun no matter what the grade you received.

The impact of Mrs. Baker will not be forgotten. The survival of her class made students feel they could survive anything.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

As with any major project — success is only achieved through hard work and the cooperation of many people. For patience, understanding, and invaluable assistance the Accolade Staff wishes to express its appreciation and thanks to: Jay Lowe, Jostens Yearbook Representative, for being there! The staff of Bryn-Alan Studios, especially Don Duzak and Mike Ramsdell who handled frantic staff members and 24 hour rushes. Mrs. Diane Johnson who provided extra help when it was needed. The faculty and student body who put up with continual interruptions, photographers, and staff members being excused from classes. Mrs. Mills' sophomore English classes, her homeroom 206 who put up with deadlines and staff members always joining class and cutting theirs. Fr O'Brien, Robert Wise and Brian Kildea who were always willing to provide extra pictures. Michelle Kirkpatrick, Jostens Yearbook Consultant, who was always in contact with the staff and making heads or tails out of the material sent in. To the families of staff members who withstood the year. The staff gives a special thanks to our advisor Mrs Sherri Mills who put up with "NO PROBLEMS!"

Can class survive crisis? The 1981-82 school year was one that put our finest qualities to the test. High unemployment, recession, crime, assassinations, attempts, and the social security could have caused today's youth to throw up their hands and quit. However these events only served to show the true depth and quality of the "class" exemplified in Cardinal Newman students. They found encouragement in their peers successes and discovered hidden abilities to encourage friends who suffered through varied problems.

This illusive "class" was never more evident than during this past year. Our pride in self, our school, and our community were manifest in our actions such as the Blood drive, the Swimathon and several other school oriented service organizations.

Cardinal Newman students exhibited their class, not by driving nice cars or wearing expensive clothes, but by reaching out, caring and doing for others.

Volume 20 of the Accolade was published by Jostens American Yearbook Company in Clarksville, Tennessee. The 1000 copies of 304 pages were printed using the offset lithography process.

The cover was specially designed by Jostens Art Department during the summer workshop of 1981. The materials used for the cover were Nighthawk 499, with the gold foil 380. The endpapers were gold dust 286 using the colors cyan 700, and magenta 800.

Souvenir 37 is the basic type style of the book, in 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 36 point sizes. The paper stock is 80 pound enamel glossy.

Portraits and film processing were provided by Bryn-Alan studios. Approximately 1000 rolls of film were shot. The artwork throughout the book was done by the Creative Services of Jostens.

It began in the summer of '81, and ended the day C.N.H.S. received the book. The late nights, Saturdays, and long afternoons were the result of Accolade '82. It is hard to believe that when this deadline is mailed the yearbook will be done. Dedicated staff members spent spare minutes in room 206 and finished the book. As Co-Editor, Aileen Walte put it, "Nothing in life is easy. This is a statement that applies to the production of this book. Despite ever present deadlines, out of focus pictures and dwindling supplies, we made it through. For me this experience taught me that I have to expect more from myself before I can expect anything from someone else. Responsibility, patience and the ability to "come up with something" on the spur of the moment became a necessity. To the people who put up with all of us during this time, our parents, teachers, and friends, we hope that this book will make it all worth while. After all, class does take time.

Co-Editor, Maureen Collins wanted to thank the people who cried and laughed with her while putting the book together by saying, "I could not have done it without my family, who gave me moral support, and strength to keep going when the going got tough. A member of the staff and a very close friend who understood what I went through. I thank God for giving me courage to continue. Without these people I couldn't have done it."

Dino,
You're a sweet,
gorgeous, sexy,
sweetheart of a guy,
(and you also mind I'm glad I met you this year, it has been definitely worth it. You have made this year a great one for me,
esp. the past 6 months. I hope we stay together so much longer. Thanks for everything you have given me. I'm looking forward to our summer together.
I love you Tom.

Your sweetheart
Sharon

Tom,
We made it... to love through
another day of life.
I would of croaked you.
You're a really sweet guy.
I hope you're in some good of my class next year, March Bell!!
Have a great summer. See ya next year.
Love, Shannon (Milly)

Tom,
I've been nice knowing you. Glad we became friends.
Good luck with Sharon always.
See ya next year.
Love
Milly

Tom,
It's been fun in Mr. Ray's class.
I'm really glad I got to know you. Have a good summer and stay out of trouble. See ya next year. Love ya,
Don

Tom,
Well we lived through Noziglia!
It was a pretty shitty class but a lot of fun too. I'm glad I got to know you even if you are just a sophomore (kidding). You're really sweet and I hope you have a great summer!
Love Kim

Tom, very ce and cute
y. It's been great in homeroom.
have next year we'll have a class and you can go through my lunch.

Love ya,
Shelley

Tom, your a sweet
guy start that way!
Thanks for the shirt!
Good luck with Sharon
Stay close!
Love
Shelley

Tom, really your are a really nice guy. I wish we would have had some classes together, but maybe we'll have some next year. Have a super killer summer and stay cool.
